Astronaut Radios All Okay As He Spins Around Earth

BULLETIN

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Gordon Cooper soared away on America's longest planned space flight today, described his celestial ride as "quite a thrill" and early in the mission was given a go-ahead for at least seven of his planned 22 orbits.

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Gordon Cooper soared into orbit in his tiny Faith 7 spacecraft today and began whirling on a marathon space journey intended to keep him aloft for more than 34 hours.

Minutes after entering orbit Cooper reported by radio that everything was "mighty good." Astronaut Walter M. Schirra, in communication with Cooper at Cape Canaveral, said: "Great sport, isn't it?"

"It sure is," Cooper replied as he wizzed along on the first of a planned 22 circuits of the globe.

Schirra presently holds the American manned spaced flight record of 9 hours, 13 minutes.

Cooper, 36, an Air Force major, recketed into space aboard a powerful Atlas booster which blazed away from Cape Canaveral at 8:04 a. m. Eastern Standard Time with a roar and a flash of flames.

Five minutes later the 1½ ton space craft had settled into its planned orbital path more than 100 miles above the earth. This was formally announced by Mercury Control Center.

Cooper took the control stick to rotate his capsule 180 degrees so that he was riding upright and backward, with the craft's blunt heat shield pushing a path through space.

As he turned the capsule around, Cooper told Schirra he could see his spent Atlas booster following him very closely, also in orbit.

Schirra asked him what color the booster was.

Cooper replied that it was "silver."

At the same time the astronaut reported fuel and oxygen supplies, electrical and other systems of the capsule were in excellent condition

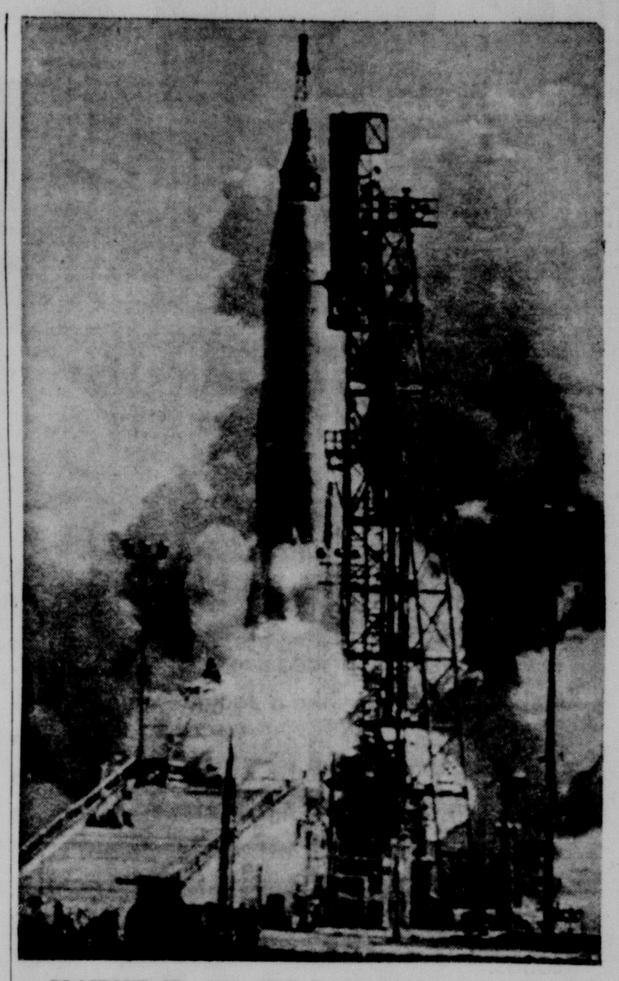

Cooper, the tenth man and the sixth American to rocket into space, was slated for the longest U.S. flight yet.

The flight plan called for him to circle the globe 22 times, traveling nearly 600,000 miles on a lonely voyage lasting 34 hours, 19 minutes. If all goes right, his Faith 7 craft will parachute to a landing in the Pacific southeast of Midway Island about 6:23 p. m. Eastern Standard Time Thursday.

The scheduled mission is nearly four times longer than Schirra's six-orbit trip last Oct. 3. But it falls far short of the tandem flights made last August by Soviet cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich, who remained aloft through 64 and 48 orbits respectively.

Cooper's Atlas lifted off only four minutes behind the earliest possible launching schedule. The short delay was caused by a minor malfunction in the ground control guidance system for the Atlas.

Faith 7 Blasted Off At 8:04, And In Orbit At 8:09

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Here is a log in Eastern Standard Time, of astronaut Gordon Cooper's space flight:

2:50 a.m.—Cooper was awakened by Dr. Howard Minners to begin the big day. He had retired at 8:45 p.m., Tuesday.

3:22 a.m.—He had the traditional astronaut's breakfast of eggs, steak and dry toast to top off the low residue diet he had been on for several days. Then he had a physical examination. He had lost a pound from the previous day.

4:24 a.m.—He began climbing into his 20-pound silvery space suit.

4:55 a.m.—Cooper came out of Hangar S, waved at newsmen and officials on hand, and entered the transfer van for the quick trip to Pad 14 and his spacecraft.

5:33 a.m. — The astronaut climbed into the Faith 7 spacecraft and settled for the wait until launch.

6:37 a.m.—Technicians completed sealing the hatch.

6:58 a.m.—The 123-foot tall gantry, a service tower, moved back, leaving the gleaming rocket and capsule standing stark and alone against a cloudless sky.

8:04 a.m.—Liftoff. Cooper was on his way toward space.

First Orbit:

8:09 a.m.—Project Mercury officials announced the spacecraft had achieved orbit and was enroute around the earth.

World Watches

Millions See Cooper Whirl In Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Across the world—and even above it—an impressive array of spectators gathered to watch astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr. go spinning 22 times around the earth.

In addition to millions of people tuned in on television and radio, America's most ambitious space project thus far required the services of more than 19,000 professional bird watchers spotted at key places around the globe. Most of them were deployed on ships and planes in likely recovery areas in case the 36-year-old astronaut was required by circumstances to end his 34-hour trip ahead of schedule.

Europe hoped to get an unprecedented peek at the Air Force major in his Faith 7 capsule via Telstar 2 and a special camera in the cockpit. Another eye peering down from the sky is the weather satellite Tyros, which makes six passes a day over the Atlantic Ocean during the daylight hours of his mission, one over the Pacific area crossed by his flight and a quick pass over the sea or Arabia.

Among the amateur space fans perhaps none is so rabid in its enthusiasm as the group of science-minded youngsters from junior and senior high schools in the Cape Canaveral area who set up an elaborate tracking station on a motel roof.

As always on shot day, the motel signs on Cocoa Beach, the nearest community to the cape, have blossomed with messages of good luck and bon voyage.

"Our prayers and hopes go with Gordon Cooper," says a typical marquee.

The number of campers and people living in house trailers down on the beach has diminished considerably from the tens of thousands who came to watch Alan B. Shepard Jr.'s sub-orbital flight two years ago. Among the tourists gathered for this shot, however, are carloads from at least 30 states, including Alaska.

Beautiful, Says Wife Of Cooper

Describes Liftoff As She Watches On TV At Her Home

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—"Beautiful."

That was the way Mrs. Gordon Cooper described the launch of her astronaut husband's mercury capsule at Cape Canaveral, Fla., today.

Mrs. Cooper and her daughters —Camala, 14, and Janita, 13— watched the launch in the privacy of the master bedroom at their home 25 miles east of Houston.

It was more than an hour later that Dave Schwartz, a public affairs officer at the Manned Spacecraft Center, left the ranch style home and gave newsmen Mrs. Cooper's one-word reaction.

Schwartz said Mrs. Cooper asked him to say nothing more in behalf of herself and the daughters.

He said the mother and girls went into the master bedroom 15 minutes before launch and were smiling when they returned to the den after it was certain the blastoff had been successful.

Just 30 minutes before launch they received a telephone call from Cooper from his capsule.

Schwartz would not give details of the telephone conversation but said the family appeared more relaxed while awaiting the start of the scheduled 34-hour space flight than had been the case Tuesday when radar trouble at Bermuda caused a postponement.

Schwartz said Mrs. Cooper and the daughters will remain in seclusion and will make no appearances before newsmen until the end of the flight and Cooper's successful recovery.

They had three television sets turned on for today's launch.

Mrs. Cooper arose at 4:30 a.m. The girls, up until about 10 o'clock Tuesday night, slept until 6:05 a.m.

NEWSCHART indicates various possibilities in the projected 22-orbit flight of astronaut Gordon Cooper. Top globe indicates path of first orbit while lower globe shows final orbit if flight goes entire distance. Primary landing area would be in the Pacific (lower right insert) near Midway. If flight has to be shortened, landing area may be in Atlantic (upper right insert). (UPI Telephoto)

Wallace Blasted On State Troops

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A Negro leader says Gov. George C. Wallace is trying to undermine a biracial agreement on Birmingham's racial problems by keeping state troopers in the city.

While the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth was calling on Wallace Tuesday night to remove the highway patrolmen, Wallace again was calling on President Kennedy to withdraw special federal troops he sent into Alabama.

Wallace replied to Shuttlesworth one of the top leaders in the desegregation campaign, that the state troopers would remain in Birmingham as long as he thinks they are needed to help maintain law and order.

The White House announced no reply to Wallace's latest telegram protesting the federal troops, but the President has shown no inclination to recall the soldiers in previous exchanges with the Alabama governor.

In his latest telegram, Wallace demanded that what he termed an "advance echelon of a military striking force" be withdrawn from Birmingham. This was a reference to about 25 officers of a headquarters planning unit in the city. Wallace said their presence invited new rioting by Negroes.

About 3,000 riot-trained soldiers have been sent to military posts in Alabama, but they are not in Birmingham.

The President had lunch Tuesday with 25 Alabama publishers and editors and the main topic of discussion was the state's racial problems.

Kennedy reportedly urged cooperation between local Negro and white leaders, and said that any Negro trend toward extremism would best be offset by conferences between moderates on both sides. The luncheon had been scheduled for some time.

The White House announced that Kennedy's trip to north Alabama Saturday for a Tennessee Valley Authority function will not include visits to Tuscumbia, Sheffield and Florence, as had been announced previously.

Reopening Of Steel Pact Talks 'Up In Air'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A two-hour meeting of United Steelworkers executives has left unanswered the question of whether the union intends to reopen contract negotiations with the basic steel industry.

Union President David J. McDonald said the reopening question remains "up in the air" following the meeting Tuesday of the union's international executive board. The board was supposed to meet for two days but instead cut it to two hours for some unknown reason.

Pennsylvania House Passes 5% Sales Tax

HARRISBURG — The House Tuesday night approved a 5 per cent sales tax by a vote of 110 to 90 and sent the legislation to the Senate.

House Republicans then immediately passed the accompanying two-cent increase in the tax on cigarettes by a 117 to 83 vote.

The Senate Finance Committee is scheduled to consider both measures today.

Senate Majority Leader James S. Berger, a Republican, said "if the committee approves the tax measure, and I think it will, all members will be called back to act on the legislation this week."

This means that the sales tax measure, and all of Gov. William W. Scranton's $139 million program for new revenue could be passed by Saturday.

Wire Contact Causes Burns To City Man

An East Liverpool man was burned critically today when he apparently came in contact with a high tension power line while riding on top of a freight train near Alexandria, Va.

Police there said Louis Bernard Noland, 25, suffered severe burns over about 90 per cent of his body.

A car inspector noticed a burned wallet and traces of blood on top of a refrigerator car.

Two hours later, railroad detectives found Noland, his clothes burned from his body, on the ground alongside a track and in about six inches of water a mile away.

Police said he apparently had stood up and was knocked off a slow moving train after being struck by a high tension wire.

Noland left East Liverpool last week in search of work at Baltimore, where he once had worked in a steel plant.

His father, Asa Noland, resides at the Ceramic Hotel.

A sister, Mrs. Myrtle Doughty, of Shadyside was notified early this morning by the police department in Alexandria, who said that he was in a hospital there and his condition was "critical." He attended East Liverpool High School and also served in the Army.

Bidding Set On Wellsville Post Office

The Post Office Department is ready to call for bids for construction of a new post office in Wellsville.

Rep. Wayne Hays said Tuesday afternoon the department will ask for bids Monday, to be opened July 9 at the Cincinnati regional office.

The department has acquired a site on the north side of 11th St. from Main to Center Sts.

The building will be constructed under the department's lease construction program, which utilizes the resources and investment funds of private enterprise for needed postal facilities.

The department's capital investment will be limited to postal equipment.

Hays said interested bidders must contact W. A. Boers of the Regional Office of the Post Office Department at Cincinnati.

Bids will be on a 20-year basic lease, with six 5-year renewal options.

The site option will be transferred to the successful bidder, who will purchase the land, construct the building and lease it to the department.

Plans call for 4,362 square feet of interior space, 537 square feet of platform and 5,423 square feet of paved area.

The new structure will replace inadequate facilities on Main St. between 5th and 6th Sts.

No More Concessions

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has told the British and American governments that the Soviet Union will make no more concessions in the nuclear test ban negotiations, informed sources reported today.

Hunston 'Serious'

LISBON — County Commissioner Walter A. Hunston, 71, of East Palestine was reported in 'serious" condition at Youngstown South Side Hospital, where he was taken early Tuesday morning with an apparent recurrence of a lung ailment.

Turk Purchases Pottery Building

Mike Turk, president of Mike Turk, Inc., announced today he has acquired the land and buildings of the former Edwin M. Knowles China Co. — minus the machinery — and hopes to interest an industrial firm or a series of several concerns in utilizing the facilities.

Turk acquired the Knowles property from Yoder & Frey, Inc., of Archbold, Ohio, the industrial liquidating concern to which the former pottery firm's assets were sold a few months ago.

THE KNOWLES plant is on a 10-acre site and has 356,000 square feet of floor space.

The liquidating concern is scheduled to auction off the plant's machinery sometime in June, allowing Turk to assume actual possession of the property on July 1.

"I feel the plant has possibilities," Turk said in commenting on the acquisition. "I hope we can get an industry or industries to locate there. That is my goal, because it would be an asset to the community."

Turk said an intensive investigation and negotiations with several concerns has proved conclusively that there appears to be almost no hope of continued operation of the plant for dinnerware production.

Of the possibility of using the plant as a site for another industry or industries, he said: "I have been working with a number of firms that might be interested, but nothing definite has developed yet."

-:-

CITING other advantages of the site and the plant, he pointed out that it is served by a rail siding, it has ample parking space and the buildings are arranged in such a way that operations can be confined essentially to one floor.

"Because of the size, it might be possible to develop it as an 'industrial park' for several concerns rather than for a single firm," Turk said.

He said he would prefer to lease the real estate and would make alterations to suit the new tenant.

Turk said he has been approached with the idea of permitting part of the buildings to be used for storage space, but has refrained from that action because of his wish to make the space available for an industry or industries that would provide new jobs in the community.

Drivers Held In 2 Wrecks

A Wellsville motorist and an East Palestine driver were charged with driving while intoxicated following two of three area traffic mishaps today and Tuesday, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Glover Stasel, 60, of 2101 Nevada St., Wellsville, was cited after his car went off the left side of Township Rd. 776 about a quarter of mile north of Route 39 near Highlandtown and struck an embankment on a slight curve, officers said.

Robert Molineaux, 44, also of Nevada St., a passenger in the car, suffered bruises of the chin. There was minor damage to the auto, according to the patrol. The mishap occurred at 1:15 p. m.

Millard Engle, 48, of 31 E. Martin St., East Palestine, was also charged with driving while intoxicated after his car rammed the rear of a semi - trailer truck on Route 14 about a mile west of the Pennsylvania border at 2 a.m.

The front of Engle's auto was damaged when it struck the westbound rig operated by Rex Hall, 24, of Lyons.

Carl Glenn Hogue, 63, of Middlesex, Pa., R. D. 1, was arrested on two charges after his car hit the rear of a parked auto on Route 172 west of Hanoverton early morning.

His car struck the auto of Phyllis Conser, 26, of East Rochester R. D. 1, officers said.

He was charged wtih driving left of center and failure to stop after an accident.

Judge Lectures West End Driver In Littering Case

A West End man was lectured by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff and given a suspended fine of $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty today to a charge he dumped a sack and some paper cups out of his car Saturday night on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd.

Dorsey E. Stowars, 744 Leonard St., was cited by the State Highway Patrol just outside the East Liverpool corporate limits. Questioned by the court, Stowers said he disposed of a paper sack containing two cups. The patrol report noted that Stowers agreed to retrieve the litter after he was cited. Stowers told the judge he looked for the refuse, but was unable to find it.

Warning that state law provides a maximum penalty of a $50 fine or 30 days in jail for throwing refuse on the highway, Judge Chertoff admonished Stowers to "be more careful in the future."

Elizabeth Wilhelm of Oakcrest, near Calcutta, was given a suspended fine of $10 and costs when she pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an auto without a driver's license. She was cited by the patrol Friday at 1:25 p. m. on County Rd. 428.

A hearing is set Thursday at 9 a. m. for Jane Gombeski of Elysian Way, cited Tuesday at 11:10 a. m. on a charge of making an illegal turn at E. 5th and Washington Sts.

Most Ohio Counties Already Require Work On Relief Pay

By PHIL GUNBY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Even before the legislature considered making it a state law, most of Ohio's 88 counties were requiring the able-bodied to work for their relief payments.

State welfare officials say 87 of the 117 so-called "relief areas" in Ohio have some kind of work program for relief recipients. Only about 14 counties do not use some form of the program, they said.

A sampling of county welfare directors by The Associated Press indicates general satisfaction with programs requiring recipients to work for their welfare checks.

Richard Wood, Stark County's welfare director, said: "I'd want to keep the program even if there was only one person in it."

In Athens County, an assistant to the director said "99 per cent are happy to work out their orders" and added that what problems come "generally are small ones."

"We're real sold," Richland County's director, Arlo Garver, remarked.

Most directors agreed that there always are a few "goof-offs", but said most want to work for their checks as a matter of self-respect. Even those medically excused sometimes demand to be allowed to do something, one director remarked.

Work assignments include trimming along county roads cleaning up parks, cutting brush, helping janitors at county buildings with special jobs, and lighter work for those unsuited to heavier tasks.

50 County Reliefers On Work-Out Plan

There are about 50 working out relief payments at $1 an hour through the Columbiana County Welfare Department, according to Robert Bycroft, county director, and about 17 through the Soldiers and Sailors Relief office.

Those able to work help clean the Courthouse, county offices, cemeteries, township roads, village streets, two state parks—Beaver and Guilford — and other tasks, Bycroft said. The pay is equivalent to about $1 an hour.

The director said he is uncertain how the new law would effect the present system. In the city relief program, there are about 27 currently working out relief checks, and are paid about $1.25 an hour.

Hancock 4-H Waits Demonstration Night

Hancock County 4-H Club members will exhibit their projects in the annual "Demonstration Night" Friday at 7 at New Cumberland High School.

A public speaking contest is also slated and winners of a cartoon contest on the theme of "My Teeth and I" are to be announced.

Mrs. Ruth McPherson, club agent, said there will be a public skating party Thursday night at the Melody Lane Rink in Hookstown.

25 At Meeting Held By County Teachers

5-1 Vote Against Mollycoddling

A thumping 277-53 majority in the U.S. House of Representatives for paddling unruly kids in District of Columbia schools will help to back up harassed administrators of Washington's school system.

But they need more than the right to lay on hands. Washington educators are in deep trouble. They are coping with problems in the nation's capital that weren't created and can't be solved by teachers.

WASHINGTON has been turned into a battleground by race segregators who are trying to prove in District of Columbia school that integration won't work. They are doing this against the determined opposition of school administrators who are sure they can prove integration will work if given a fair chance.

But it is not a fair chance if they cannot enforce discipline in Washington schools.

It is not a fair chance if a segregationist-dominated District of Columbia committee refuses to vote money for needed buildings.

It is not a fair chance if the deck is stacked against school administrators.

THE ARGUMENT over corporal punishment has been hot and heavy. It never should have had to get into the House of Representatives and the Senate; it belongs to the District of Columbia School Board.

But the board failed to resolve it.

Perhaps it is time for a national showdown on whether it makes sense to try to train children without the right to inflict corporal punishment on those who misbehave.

A vote of 277-53 — better than 5-1 — comes close to reflecting popular opinion.

A similarly lopsided vote in the U.S. Senate might convince the mollycoddlers they're outnumbered.

To Greater Service

The Rev. James E. Hunton is nearing the end of his service here as pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene.

On June 9 he will leave to begin his new duties as district superintendent of the Philadelphia Area of the denomination. The fact that he will be responsible for the administration of 62 churches points up the importance of his new position.

Those who have benefitted from his guidance week after week as members of the Nazarene church and the many others he numbers among his friends can't help but have a feeling of regret at Rev. Hunton's departure. But along with this feeling, must be another of satisfaction that the work of an outstanding minister has been recognized to the point where he will assume additional responsibilities in the faith to which he has dedicated his life.

In Case Of Doubt

Coincidence brought together two viewpoints on Cuba at the close of last week.

One was an interview with Premier Fidel Castro in which he expressed a surprising mood of conciliation toward the United States. Coming from one who recently has been lionized in Moscow, this will interest both the "Havanalysts" and the "Kremlinologists."

The other interests all of us. It was a summary of the major findings in a report by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee on the Soviet buildup in Cuba.

It said at least 17,500 Russian "technicians," including 5,000 combat troops, are still in Cuba, despite the ultimatum demanding their withdrawal.

It said it was likely that Soviet missiles were concealed in caves in Cuba, implying these could be both strategic and tactical, despite assurances by the Central Intelligence Agency that all strategic missiles had been withdrawn.

It said Premier Castro is fomenting revolution in Latin America, that as many as 40,000 Soviet citizens are in Cuba, including "technicians" and combat troops and implied that gaps and goofs in U.S. intelligence-gathering measures throw a shadow of doubt over information from these sources.

What is happening in Cuba has ceased to be a proper subject for debate. There is only one reasonable point of view on Cuba. That is to assume that the Soviet Union is doing there what it could be counted on to do anywhere else — make Communist hay while the sun shines.

What could be sillier than to argue over conflicting estimates of how much it is doing when in all probability all the estimates are too low?

If everybody were to assume that Moscow is going all-out while it has the chance, nobody would be far from wrong. The opposite assumption — that Moscow has changed its nature and is cooperating with the United States — has no support either in history or current events.

James A. Forbes

The name James A. Forbes may mean little to the younger generation, but to the older residents of Wellsville it signifies years of devotion and years of service to a community.

It was not only as a building contractor that Mr. Forbes has been remembered over the years. Along with his achievements in a professional way, Wellsville residents remember the many kind deeds he has performed in one form or another.

He was a man loved and respected by all. His death this week will leave a void in the hearts of many.

Anyone Have Any Objection?

The U.S. Supreme Court has reaffirmed the obvious in a ruling that unions may not spend a member's dues for partisan politicking without the member's consent.

Except that it isn't quite that simple. The consent angle will not come into consideration unless the member objects to having his dues used for whatever politicking has been decided on by union officials.

This would make it necessary for the member to rise up among his fellows and make himself a marked man by going against majority opinion. In some instances it would make it necessary for the member to set himself up as a target for physical attack.

He would be authorized by judicial ruling to defend his right of individual choice against odds of 100-1.

The setup is grimly remindful of the argument that any school child who objects to the kind of praying being done under official sanction in a public school has the right to ask permission to leave the room until the praying is over.

How many union members — how many school children — can be expected to protect their rights under such circumstances?

There is only one way partisan politicking can be handled in unions. They must be forbidden to use their funds for any politicking at all. They must be made to follow the same rule corporations must follow — no politicking, period.

Thousands of union members are not voluntarily associated with unions. They were compelled to join and are compelled to pay dues.

When on top of all the other compulsion, their compulsory dues may be used to defeat their political favorites and help candidates and causes they oppose, the situation is intolerable.

It hasn't been helped much by a judicial ruling that they can demand part of their money back if they aren't satisfied. Who's going to decide what part of the dues they're entitled to recover? And who's going to object?

It Was A Bundle

By Truman Twill

It's time again for proms, and the thought brings more with it than warm memories. Such as the roses.

When you invited a girl to the prom, you made sure you had the price of a bundle of roses. A bundle meant 12—13 if the florist was a sport.

They had to be dark red — American Beauty. They had to have long stems, and they had to be set off with ferns.

You arrived at Her house with this bundle of horticulture wrapped in green waxed paper and laced up in a box. You wanted the world to see the performance. You were with it all the way when you brought roses.

When her mother answered your ring, you went through the formalities and gave the old lady the box, murmuring something like, "Here are some flowers for Gertie." Then you wanted to see what Gertie would do with the roses.

Meanwhile, an ordeal was going on behind the scenes, where Gertie and her old lady were wondering what good old Gertie would do, too, except you didn't know this because you believed women always had answers to these problems.

Eventually Gertie did appear, dressed up like a lamb chop at a banquet, bearing your bundle on her hip. Maybe she had subtracted a few to make the bundle more bearable. She was only a kid.

You might as well have given her a bale of hay to wear. But the roses were part of the deal and if they hadn't been presented there would have been hurt feelings. They went with Gertie.

Some boys didn't go to the prom because they didn't have Gertie. And some missed the great event because they didn't have the roses. Whether it was only a local folkway, or whether it was the prevailing practice of the time seems unimportant now.

What seems important now is that Gertie and the roses made a package. The local florists made the most of the tie-in. Roses were not in season. Long-stemmed roses never were in season.

They had to be shipped in from Roseland, or someplace. They were expensive.

Some of the ingenuity that characterized the females of the long-stemmed rose generation must have been developed while Gerties and their mothers figured out how to anchor that bundle of flowers so the whole dropping mess would stay put during the prom. Did they pin 'em to panty-waists maybe?

This is not a knock. A dozen long-stemmed roses still can't be topped as a floral tribute. But a bundle of roses to be lugged to a dance—it was preposterous.

If the sweet young things counting on being queens of the ball this prom season want something to be thankful for, they should be thankful for floral tributes they can cope with.

Anybody Have A Tranquilizer?

The Trial Costs Are Mounting

By Victor Riesel

Jimmy Hoffa, lighter in weight, shorter in temper, faces a serious personal financial problem. Court costs of long trials and the Teamsters own legal investigations are piling up—and there are those in and out of government who seek to determine who is paying the cost of the defense in the trials of Jimmy Hoffa.

Victor Riesel

Hoffa's baby-blue - eyed predecessor, Dave Beck, now serving a long prison term, once told a high federal official that the costs of his own counsels, accountants, transcripts came to almost half a million dollars. Other federal officials estimate the cost of Hoffa's recent nine-week trial in Nashville to run between $100,000 and $125,000.

There have been previous Hoffa sojourns in court and there are now two other pending trials.

Under a number of recent federal decisions, legal costs for the defense of those hit by charges similar to some Hoffa indictments cannot come out of union treasuries. The Teamsters Brotherhood, incidentally, already is burdened by heavy legal fees. The international union spent $912,240.76 for "legal fees and expenses" during 1962.

IF PREVIOUS decisions handed down by federal judges are upheld by the Supreme Court, Hoffa will have to take scores of thousands of dollars out of his own pocket or raise it elsewhere. Such expenses are not tax deductible.

Hoffa would have plenty of company in teamsters ranks. Many of his colleagues are under indictment. Many are being or have been probed, until recently, all the way from Puerto Rico to Los Angeles. There soon will be action in Chicago, from which a four - man Justice Department team of U.S. attorneys has just returned for consultation with Bob Kennedy.

One of the most authoritative decisions on the payment of legal and court costs by indicted union chiefs was handed down by the Washington Court of Appeals last July 19. The court, second only to the Supreme Court, said that union funds should not be used to defend union officers charged with wrongdoing.

The court also warned that the union and the officers should not be represented by the same lawyers.

"As a general proposition," said Circuit Judge Charles Fahy, who has a detailed knowledge of the labor movement, "We think funds of a union are not available to defend officers charged with wrongdoing which, if the charges were true, would be seriously detrimental to the union and its membership.

"The treasury of a union is not at the disposal of its officers to bear the cost of their defense. . . ."

A MORE RECENT decision by a federal court could put an even heavier burden on some officials who use union lawyers and union funds to defend themselves.

This came from Judge Ralph C. Body of the U.S. District Court, in Philadelphia.

Judge Body ordered Ray Cohen and two other officials of the besieged Teamster Local 107 to repay the union $24,941. This money had been used for the defense of the officials during and after a grand jury probe. The money had been paid out in 1959.

Judge Body's decision was handed down last month after a suit brought by the Local 107 Betterment Committee, a group which has been fighting Cohen, who is an international trustee of the Teamsters Brotherhood as well as the leader of the big local.

This decision established precedent, federal officials believe, for retroactive action making it possible for union members to force repayment in cases considered closed.

ONE STATUTE on which the government itself can move is Section 503 of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act. It says that no labor organization or employer shall directly or indirectly pay the expenses or the fine of an officer or employe convicted of any willful violation of this act.

Decisions building up these precedents have not been limited to Teamsters cases. There have been several others in various industries since 1961.

With such a body of law developing, it is inevitable that the government and rank - and-file committees will look into the indirect, as well as direct use of funds and personnel coming from a union. And in some cases there has been the crisscrossing of union legal talent.

Lawyers representing some locals, have spent time on the defense of officials of other union divisions.

Investigations of all this maneuvering are under way. It will take considerable cost accounting to determine just how much can be attributed to the defense of the accused. But it will be done. And when it is completed the financial burden will fall personally on those convicted.

Stormy History

Kurds in Iraq are writing another stormy chapter in their long, tumultuous history.

The fierce tribesmen recently renewed demands for autonomy and threatened to resume their guerilla war against the central government. Kurdish leaders ordered a cease-fire in February after a new regime took power in Iraq.

The Kurds inhabit rugged mountains and deep valleys in the borderlands where Iran, Iraq and Turkey meet, the National Geographic Society says. Though the region is called Kurdistan, it is not a political entity. Some Kurds also dwell in Syria and the Soviet Union.

In their 4,000-year history, the proud, independent people never have taken an affront lightly or submitted for long to any ruler.

Hostilities once broke out between two Kurdish clans, the Gabols and Zeidans, because a Gabol made a slighting remark about a Zeidan rider during an impromptu horse race. Bitter fighting raged for eight months and erupted again after two years of apparent peace. Two other Kurds quarreled so violently about the identity of a star that they came to fatal blows.

Impulsive Youth

By David Lawrence

Kennedy's Action In Alabama Questioned

When Sen. John F. Kennedy was campaigning for the presidency in 1960, critics said he was youthful and impulsive. They will say the same thing as they read that Mr. Kennedy issued a statement Sunday night ordering federal troops to mobilize in Alabama to deal with future rioting or local disturbances. The President didn't think this one through. In the case of the disputes with Gov. Orval E. Faubus at Little Rock, Ark., in 1957 and Gov. Ross R. Barnett at Oxford, Miss., in 1962, there was at least an alleged basis for the use of federal troops — a supposed unwillingness on the part of the local authorities to obey a federal court order but Mr. Kennedy himself told his news conference only last week that no federal statute was involved in the controversy at Birmingham, Ala. Nor have there been any federal court orders whatsoever issued in this case.

David Lawrence

Now the President is in the position of nevertheless of having threatened the use of federal military power to deal with local disorders that may arise. There is not the slightest legal basis for the use of such power under the Constitution unless requested by the state government.

No statute grants such authority to the chief executive under the circumstances which have been reported from Alabama.

For anyone in the government to order the use of federal troops or any part of the Air Force for any purpose not sanctioned by the statutes is in itself a penal offense. A federal law says:

"Whoever, except in cases and under circumstances expressly authorized by the Constitution or act of Congress, willfully uses any part of the Army or the Air Force as a posse comitatus or otherwise to execute the laws shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both."

The "United States code annotated" for 1963 contains a footnote referring to an opinion of the attorney general dated Nov. 7, 1957, which says "the president's authority to use federal troops under Sections 332 and 333 of Title 10 is not impaired by this section."

THIS WAS an opinion rendered in connection with the use of federal troops where a federal court order had been issued. There is a dispute among informed lawyers as to whether troops can ever be used to enforce even a court order and they contend that it is really the responsibility of U.S. marshals. At least in that case a controversial legal point was involved.

So the whole action of President Kennedy rests on the foundation that he described in his public statement — namely, "rioting, personal injuries, property damage and various reports of violence and brutality."

It is not the function of the federal government to maintain order inside a state unless there is an "insurrection" against the United States. To preserve order is the responsibility of a state.

Indeed, in the same morning newspapers in which the American people read of the President's orders to dispatch federal troops to the Birmingham area, there was published a message to President Kennedy from the governor of Alabama, George Wallace.

IT WAS SENT an hour after the President's announcement was made and read in part as follows:

"The Constitution of the United States . . .states that the federal government may send troops to quell domestic violence upon application of the State Legislature or the governor of a state.

"The Legislature of this state has made no request, nor have I. May I ask by what authority you would send federal troops into this state? . . .

"The situation is well in hand and law and order prevail . . . Your complete by-passing of state officials and me as governor are affronts not only to me as governor but to the people of Alabama."

An examination of the federal statute cited later by the President — Section 333 of Title 10 — shows no justification for the use by the president of federal troops just to quell a local disturbance or to prevent one from arising. It applies only if a state government refuses or fails to grant protection. This hasn't happened.

The President in his reply to Gov. Wallace says, in effect, that he didn't really intend to use federal troops in Birmingham, but only wanted to warn the state authorities that they had better maintain order and prevent violence.

If any threat to use such power is vested in the President, he can at any time intimidate a governor or mayor or local official, or he can mobilize troops to threaten reprisals and punishment if anyone in a local government doesn't do his bidding. This is an autocratic power the exercise of which the framers of the Constitution specifically sought to prevent so that no dictatorship could arise in America through the threat to use military force.

IF MR. KENNEDY feels that he has the power to prevent violence anywhere in the country, then it will be asked why no federal troops were mobilized or why the same threat of military force was not utilized before Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and his associates organized the demonstrations which, in turn, aroused the antagonism of other citizens and thus produced the conditions under which local disorder arose.

If the president actually has the power of prevention, the time to start is before the local police and the paraders clash or threaten to become involved in riots. There is a right, of course, to a peaceful demonstration, but anything which produces a disturbance is subject to police action by the local and not the federal authorities.

Some Cold Statistics

By Terry Ferrer

There will be a million more young people reaching the age of 16 this year than there were last year—a jump of more than a third in a single year. These 1947 postwar babies are a startling enough statistic by themselves, but they have greater implications for the country this year and in the future.

For 16 is the typical age to drop out of school — one of every three dropouts falls out at that age.

Without sufficient schooling, these young boys and girls face a bleak job market, lower pay than the high school graduate, more frequent unemployment and lower skilled work. If they are non-white, the prospects are even bleaker.

There are even colder statistics for the years leading to 1970. Herbert Beinstock, regional director of the Bureau of Labor Statistics in New York City, painted this picture:

"We are on the threshold of an unprecedented influx of 26 million youths into the labor market of the 1960s.

THE LARGE expansion of the under-25 group in the labor force, at the same time that rapid advances in technological development in industry are taking place, present some major barriers to any satisfactory labor force adjustment of the dropout."

Bienstock continued, "fifteen times as many young people under age 25 will enter the work force in the 1960s as did in the 1950s. About 30 per cent of the 26 million will be high school dropouts."

Aside from the immediate necessity of helping these dropouts train themselves for employment and of convincing business and industry to employ them, the long-range examination of education to prevent such fallout is urgent.

It already has begun. Programs of "compensatory education" are springing up across the country. And they are just beginning to be evaluated.

Compensatory education is nothing new, in terms of special — and expensive — education for the mentally retarded, the deaf, the blind or the crippled. But its newest application is to those who are crippled by slum life and culturally retarded.

FOR SUCH children, the State of California recently provided $324,000 in special funds this year to try a new program — small classes for intensive instruction in reading and mathematics, counseling with parents and improvement of study conditions at home or in the neighborhood — such as study halls in churches.

The Great Cities School Improvement Program, partially supported by the Ford Foundation, has also been studying in nine major cities how and why slum children get behind.

Alexander Graham Bell successfully demonstrated his telephone at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1876.

There have been previous Hoffa sojourns in court and there are now two other pending trials.

Under a number of recent federal decisions, legal costs for the defense of those hit by charges similar to some Hoffa indictments cannot come out of union treasuries. The Teamsters Brotherhood, incidentally, already is burdened by heavy legal fees. The international union spent $912,240.76 for "legal fees and expenses" during 1962.

IF PREVIOUS decisions handed down by federal judges are upheld by the Supreme Court, Hoffa will have to take scores of thousands of dollars out of his own pocket or raise it elsewhere. Such expenses are not tax deductible.

Hoffa would have plenty of company in teamsters ranks. Many of his colleagues are under indictment. Many are being or have been probed, until recently, all the way from Puerto Rico to Los Angeles. There soon will be action in Chicago, from which a four - man Justice Department team of U.S. attorneys has just returned for consultation with Bob Kennedy.

One of the most authoritative decisions on the payment of legal and court costs by indicted union chiefs was handed down by the Washington Court of Appeals last July 19. The court, second only to the Supreme Court, said that union funds should not be used to defend union officers charged with wrongdoing.

The court also warned that the union and the officers should not be represented by the same lawyers.

"As a general proposition," said Circuit Judge Charles Fahy, who has a detailed knowledge of the labor movement, "We think funds of a union are not available to defend officers charged with wrongdoing which, if the charges were true, would be seriously detrimental to the union and its membership.

"The treasury of a union is not at the disposal of its officers to bear the cost of their defense. . . ."

A MORE RECENT decision by a federal court could put an even heavier burden on some officials who use union lawyers and union funds to defend themselves.

This came from Judge Ralph C. Body of the U.S. District Court, in Philadelphia.

Judge Body ordered Ray Cohen and two other officials of the besieged Teamster Local 107 to repay the union $24,941. This money had been used for the defense of the officials during and after a grand jury probe. The money had been paid out in 1959.

Judge Body's decision was handed down last month after a suit brought by the Local 107 Betterment Committee, a group which has been fighting Cohen, who is an international trustee of the Teamsters Brotherhood as well as the leader of the big local.

This decision established precedent, federal officials believe, for retroactive action making it possible for union members to force repayment in cases considered closed.

ONE STATUTE on which the government itself can move is Section 503 of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act. It says that no labor organization or employer shall directly or indirectly pay the expenses or the fine of an officer or employe convicted of any willful violation of this act.

Decisions building up these precedents have not been limited to Teamsters cases. There have been several others in various industries since 1961.

With such a body of law developing, it is inevitable that the government and rank - and-file committees will look into the indirect, as well as direct use of funds and personnel coming from a union. And in some cases there has been the crisscrossing of union legal talent.

Lawyers representing some locals, have spent time on the defense of officials of other union divisions.

Investigations of all this maneuvering are under way. It will take considerable cost accounting to determine just how much can be attributed to the defense of the accused. But it will be done. And when it is completed the financial burden will fall personally on those convicted.

Stormy History

Kurds in Iraq are writing another stormy chapter in their long, tumultuous history.

The fierce tribesmen recently renewed demands for autonomy and threatened to resume their guerilla war against the central government. Kurdish leaders ordered a cease-fire in February after a new regime took power in Iraq.

The Kurds inhabit rugged mountains and deep valleys in the borderlands where Iran, Iraq and Turkey meet, the National Geographic Society says. Though the region is called Kurdistan, it is not a political entity. Some Kurds also dwell in Syria and the Soviet Union.

In their 4,000-year history, the proud, independent people never have taken an affront lightly or submitted for long to any ruler.

Hostilities once broke out between two Kurdish clans, the Gabois and Zeidans, because a Gabol made a slighting remark about a Zeidan rider during an impromptu horse race. Bitter fighting raged for eight months and erupted again after two years of apparent peace. Two other Kurds quarreled so violently about the identity of a star that they came to fatal blows.

Impulsive Youth

By David Lawrence

Kennedy's Action In Alabama Questioned

When Sen. John F. Kennedy was campaigning for the presidency in 1960, critics said he was youthful and impulsive. They will say the same thing as they read that Mr. Kennedy issued a statement Sunday night ordering federal troops to mobilize in Alabama to deal with future rioting or local disturbances. The President didn't think this one through. In the case of the disputes with Gov. Orval E. Faubus at Little Rock, Ark., in 1957 and Gov. Ross R. Barnett at Oxford, Miss., in 1962, there was at least an alleged basis for the use of federal troops — a supposed unwillingness on the part of the local authorities to obey a federal court order but Mr. Kennedy himself told his news conference only last week that no federal statute was involved in the controversy at Birmingham, Ala. Nor have there been any federal court orders whatsoever issued in this case.

David Lawrence

Now the President is in the position of nevertheless of having threatened the use of federal military power to deal with local disorders that may arise. There is not the slightest legal basis for the use of such power under the Constitution unless requested by the state government.

No statute grants such authority to the chief executive under the circumstances which have been reported from Alabama.

For anyone in the government to order the use of federal troops or any part of the Air Force for any purpose not sanctioned by the statutes is in itself a penal offense. A federal law says:

"Whoever, except in cases and under circumstances expressly authorized by the Constitution or act of Congress, willfully uses any part of the Army or the Air Force as a posse comitatus or otherwise to execute the laws shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both."

The "United States code annotated" for 1963 contains a footnote referring to an opinion of the attorney general dated Nov. 7, 1957, which says "the president's authority to use federal troops under Sections 332 and 333 of Title 10 is not impaired by this section."

THIS WAS an opinion rendered in connection with the use of federal troops where a federal court order had been issued. There is a dispute among informed lawyers as to whether troops can ever be used to enforce even a court order and they contend that it is really the responsibility of U.S. marshals. At least in that case a controversial legal point was involved.

So the whole action of President Kennedy rests on the foundation that he described in his public statement — namely, "rioting, personal injuries, property damage and various reports of violence and brutality."

It is not the function of the federal government to maintain order inside a state unless there is an "insurrection" against the United States. To preserve order is the responsibility of a state.

Indeed, in the same morning newspapers in which the American people read of the President's orders to dispatch federal troops to the Birmingham area, there was published a message to President Kennedy from the governor of Alabama, George Wallace.

IT WAS SENT an hour after the President's announcement was made and read in part as follows:

"The Constitution of the United States . . .states that the federal government may send troops to quell domestic violence upon application of the State Legislature or the governor of a state.

"The Legislature of this state has made no request, nor have I. May I ask by what authority you would send federal troops into this state? . . .

"The situation is well in hand and law and order prevail . . . Your complete by-passing of state officials and me as governor are affronts not only to me as governor but to the people of Alabama."

An examination of the federal statute cited later by the President — Section 333 of Title 10 — shows no justification for the use by the president of federal troops just to quell a local disturbance or to prevent one from arising. It applies only if a state government refuses or fails to grant protection. This hasn't happened.

The President in his reply to Gov. Wallace says, in effect, that he didn't really intend to use federal troops in Birmingham, but only wanted to warn the state authorities that they had better maintain order and prevent violence.

If any threat to use such power is vested in the President, he can at any time intimidate a governor or mayor or local official, or he can mobilize troops to threaten reprisals and punishment if anyone in a local government doesn't do his bidding. This is an autocratic power the exercise of which the framers of the Constitution specifically sought to prevent so that no dictatorship could arise in America through the threat to use military force.

IF MR. KENNEDY feels that he has the power to prevent violence anywhere in the country, then it will be asked why no federal troops were mobilized or why the same threat of military force was not utilized before Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and his associates organized the demonstrations which, in turn, aroused the antagonism of other citizens and thus produced the conditions under which local disorder arose.

If the president actually has the power of prevention, the time to start is before the local police and the paraders clash or threaten to become involved in riots. There is a right, of course, to a peaceful demonstration, but anything which produces a disturbance is subject to police action by the local and not the federal authorities.

Some Cold Statistics

By Terry Ferrer

There will be a million more young people reaching the age of 16 this year than there were last year—a jump of more than a third in a single year. These 1947 post-war babies are a startling enough statistic by themselves, but they have greater implications for the country this year and in the future.

For 16 is the typical age to drop out of school — one of every three dropouts falls out at that age.

Without sufficient schooling, these young boys and girls face a bleak job market, lower pay than the high school graduate, more frequent unemployment and lower skilled work. If they are non-white, the prospects are even bleaker.

There are even colder statistics for the years leading to 1970. Herbert Beinstock, regional director of the Bureau of Labor Statistics in New York City, painted this picture:

"We are on the threshold of an unprecedented influx of 26 million youths into the labor market of the 1960s.

THE LARGE expansion of the under-25 group in the labor force, at the same time that rapid advances in technological development in industry are taking place, present some major barriers to any satisfactory labor force adjustment of the dropout."

Bienstock continued, "fifteen times as many young people under age 25 will enter the work force in the 1960s as did in the 1950s. About 30 per cent of the 26 million will be high school dropouts."

Aside from the immediate necessity of helping these dropouts train themselves for employment and of convincing business and industry to employ them, the long-range examination of education to prevent such fallout is urgent.

It already has begun. Programs of "compensatory education" are springing up across the country. And they are just beginning to be evaluated.

Compensatory education is nothing new, in terms of special — and expensive — education for the mentally retarded, the deaf, the blind or the crippled. But its newest application is to those who are crippled by slum life and culturally retarded.

FOR SUCH children, the State of California recently provided $324,000 in special funds this year to try a new program — small classes for intensive instruction in reading and mathematics, counseling with parents and improvement of study conditions at home or in the neighborhood — such as study halls in churches.

The Great Cities School Improvement Program, partially supported by the Ford Foundation, has also been studying in nine major cities how and why slum children get behind.

Lawyer, 34, Chosen New Head Of FCC

WASHINGTON (AP) — To replace Newton N. Minow as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission President Kennedy has picked a 34-year-old lawyer who finds some "green shoots" sprouting in what Minow once described as "a vast wasteland"—the field of television.

Minow, 37, handed in his resignation Tuesday, five years before his term ends, to become executive vice president and general counsel of Encyclopaedia Britannica Inc.

To take his place, Kennedy chose E. William Henry, former member of a Memphis, Tenn., law firm, who has served as a commissioner on the FCC since last August.

Minow's resignation, to take effect June 1, set off a shuffle involving five jobs.

To fill the vacancy on the commission, the President announced his intention to appoint Asst. Atty. Gen. Lee Loevinger, 50, who has been in charge of the Department of Justice's antitrust division.

As his replacement, Kennedy said he would name William H. Orrick Jr., 47, now deputy undersecretary of state for administration.

For Orrick it will be a return to familiar grounds. Before being named to the State Department post last July, he served for more than a year as assistant attorney general in charge of the civil division. He is said to be a trusted lieutenant of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The chain reaction of job changes was reported to be completed with William J. Rockett, now assistant secretary of state for administration in charge of personnel, succeeding Orrick and Herman Pollack, deputy assistant secretary, taking over Crockett's office.

In his letter accepting Minow's resignation, Kennedy penned "Dear Newt" over the formal salutation of "Dear Mr. Minow" and added under his signature, "Many thanks for all you have done."

Minow, who came in with the first pioneers of the New Frontier, will not likely get such a ringing sendoff from the broadcasting industry.

Just last April the National Association of Broadcasters convention listened in cool silence as Minow charged that the industry had not succeeded in regulating itself and that the public was "drowning in commercials and calling for help."

Compact Car Hits Manhole

A Hancock County man's compact auto was damaged Tuesday afternoon when the undercarriage struck a manhole at the intersection of two downtown alleys, police reported.

The 1961 model car, driven by Arthur Tiller, 20, of Congo, near Newell, hit the manhole at Drury Ln. and Persimmon Alley about 1:45 p. m., he reported to the police department. The auto is owned by Arthur Wickham, also of Congo.

Tiller told police he was driving east in Drury Ln. and halted at its intersection with Persimmon Alley. As he began to proceed, the undercarriage hit the manhole, Tiller said.

Two autos were damaged in a mishap in parallel lanes of E. 6th St. at St. Clair Ave. at 11:15 p. m. Tuesday, police reported.

The collision damaged the right front fender of a 1961 compact driven by Gerry Helen, 2212 Crawford Ave., and the left front fender of a 1956 sedan operated by James A. Jenkins of 5th Ave., LaCroft, officers said.

Jenkins told police he attempted to pass another auto which was halted, although the traffic light at the intersection was green, and did not see the Helen auto.

Cooper Begins 22-Orbit Ride

Cooper was barely off the ground when the first line television pictures of an American astronaut in space were relayed to a ground station. A TV camera mounted above the instrument panel beamed the pictures of Cooper, from the moment he lifted off until he was inserted into orbit, to a Cape Canaveral monitor.

The station reported reception was good, although the pictures were jerky because they were sent at a slow rate of one frame every two seconds, compared with 30 frames a second for commercial television.

Three ground stations — Cape Canaveral, the Canary Islands, and the Pacific command ship, Coastal Sentry — were equipped to receive television from Faith 7.

Cape Canaveral had equipment to convert the pictures to normal scan speed and some were to be fed into commercial TV networks.

At the White House in Washington, President Kennedy sat in his bedroom watching his TV set closely as it showed the start of Cooper's journey from the Canaveral pad.

As he zoomed above on the initial orbit, the elated Cooper report: "It feels good, buddy."

The shot had been postponed Tuesday because of trouble with a tracking radar on Bermuda.

Cooper's Atlas started him off today in the same flawless manner as other Atlases last year boosted astronauts John H. Glenn Jr., Malcolm Scott Carpenter and Schirra into orbit.

During five minutes and five seconds of powered flight, the Atlas shoved Faith 7 into an almost perfect orbit ranging from 100 to 166 miles above the earth. Spacecraft speed at orbital insertion was 17,544 miles an hour—nearly 300 miles a minute.

While Cooper blasted upward, he reported in crisp, clear tones the condition of the capsule and himself. Gravity forces up to eight times normal pressed him against his couch.

Once in orbit, the gravity pressures were suddenly gone and Cooper was in the strange world of weightlessness—in which he was to remain until re-entering the atmosphere at flight's end.

As Faith 7 shot into orbit, Schirra told Cooper: "you look real go, Gordo." The astronauts' nickname for Cooper is "Gordo."

Because of Soviet reluctance to release detailed information on their long flights, Cooper's mission was expected to add greatly to the storehouse of knowledge U.S. scientists are collecting on the effects of prolonged space trips on a human being.

Medical monitors and doctors stationed at ground stations carefully watched his condition for any signs of strain which might lead to termination of the flight.

A tape recording played at the press site at Cape Canaveral several minutes after launching showed this exchange of conversation between Schirra and Cooper when the Atlas released Faith 7:

Schirra—"You're smack dab in the middle of the go block."

Cooper—"Boy, oh boy!"

Schirra—"Have a good ride, boy."

Cooper—"Thank you, buddy."

Cooper's launching was conducted with the same openness that marked the five previous U.S. manned space flights. Thousands viewed the launching from nearby beaches. Millions, including President Kennedy, watched on television.

The television viewers included Cooper's wife, Trudy, and two teen-age daughters Camala, 14, and Janita, 13, at their Houston, Tex., home, and Mrs. Hattie Cooper, the astronaut's mother, and his grandmother at the latter's home in Tecumseh, Okla.

This is in contrast with the secrecy which has cloaked all four Soviet man-in-space shots until after the cosmonauts were airborne.

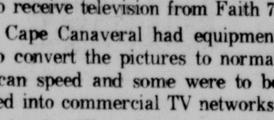

After Cooper turned his capsule around, it was inclined at a 34 degree angle with the earth. This orbital attitude is the proper position for firing the three reverse rockets which would bring the capsule out of orbit in case of emergency.

In swift succession, Cooper was in contact with the tracking stations at the Canary Islands; at Kano, Nigeria and on Zanzibar Island, east of Africa. Thirty minutes after launching, Mercury Control reported that all systems were functioning perfectly and "we have a hale, healthy and working pilot."

Cooper told the Zanzibar station he was working to adjust the cooling system in his cabin and suit.

Mercury Control said Cooper would make a complete circle of the earth every 88.7 minutes.

Spelling Error Ruled Out In Dismissal Plea

LISBON — Judge Raymond S. Buzzard this morning denied a dismissal because of an error in spelling, and for lack of state seals, as defense counsel grasped at straws in trying to prevent the extradition of three Mahoning County men to Weirton to face charges of burglary.

Atty. Jack Nybell of Youngstown sought dismissal of the case against Amil Dinsio, 26, of Poland, and Harold J. Dailey, 32, and Daniel N. Marshall, 33, both of Youngstown because the name was spelled "Emil Dension" and Sheriff Joseph Manypenny's name came out "Moneypenny" in Dinsio papers, and other errors of spelling in papers for Dailey and Marshall.

Girl Escapes Man In Attack

Screaming and struggling, a 16-year-old Bradshaw Ave. girl escaped unharmed from an unidentified man who attempted to assault her in an alley off Bradshaw Ave. about 11:19 p. m. Tuesday, police reported.

Police were summoned after the high school student's screams alerted a Bradshaw Ave. family. A wide search of the area turned up no trace of the would-be attacker, officers said.

Patrolman L. E. Richard reported he was dispatched to the area after Patrolman Robert B. Pyle, desk officer, received a telephoned report from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cook, 1000 Bradshaw Ave., that a girl had been assaulted on Bradshaw Ave.

Officer Richard found the girl at a Thompson Ave. home, where she ran after escaping the attacker. The girl said she was walking upgrade on Bradshaw, en route home from a West End carnival, when a man stopped her and asked her if a nearby home was for rent.

When she replied "Yes" and said the owner resides on Sophia St., the man asked her to show him the owner's home, the girl related. But she declined and told him she had to go home, she said. Then the man grabbed her, but the girl screamed and broke away, running through Clay Alley to the Thompson Ave. home, officers said.

Other officers joined Patrolman Richard for a wide search of the area, but the unidentified man could not be located, police reported.

Three cruisers and a private car were used to scour the area for about two hours.

Spelling Error Ruled Out In Dismissal Plea

LISBON — Judge Raymond S. Buzzard this morning denied a dismissal because of an error in spelling, and for lack of state seals, as defense counsel grasped at straws in trying to prevent the extradition of three Mahoning County men to Weirton to face charges of burglary.

Atty. Jack Nybell of Youngstown sought dismissal of the case against Amil Dinsio, 26, of Poland, and Harold J. Dailey, 32, and Daniel N. Marshall, 33, both of Youngstown because the name was spelled "Emil Dension" and Sheriff Joseph Manypenny's name came out "Moneypenny" in Dinsio papers, and other errors of spelling in papers for Dailey and Marshall.

Girl Escapes Man In Attack

Screaming and struggling, a 16-year-old Bradshaw Ave. girl escaped unharmed from an unidentified man who attempted to assault her in an alley off Bradshaw Ave. about 11:19 p. m. Tuesday, police reported.

Police were summoned after the high school student's screams alerted a Bradshaw Ave. family. A wide search of the area turned up no trace of the would-be attacker, officers said.

Patrolman L. E. Richard reported he was dispatched to the area after Patrolman Robert B. Pyle, desk officer, received a telephoned report from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cook, 1000 Bradshaw Ave., that a girl had been assaulted on Bradshaw Ave.

Officer Richard found the girl at a Thompson Ave. home, where she ran after escaping the attacker. The girl said she was walking upgrade on Bradshaw, en route home from a West End carnival, when a man stopped her and asked her if a nearby home was for rent.

When she replied "Yes" and said the owner resides on Sophia St., the man asked her to show him the owner's home, the girl related. But she declined and told him she had to go home, she said. Then the man grabbed her, but the girl screamed and broke away, running through Clay Alley to the Thompson Ave. home, officers said.

Other officers joined Patrolman Richard for a wide search of the area, but the unidentified man could not be located, police reported.

Three cruisers and a private car were used to scour the area for about two hours.

West Virginia Had Top Year Economically

CHARLESTON (AP) — West Virginians, as predicted, spent more money than ever before and made 1962 the best year economically in the state's 100-year history, the State Chamber of Commerce reported today.

The chamber analyzed consumers' sales tax collections for the final nine months of 1961 and 1962. The results showed a spending increase of about 3.8 per cent in 1962 over the previous year.

The tax collections from April through December in 1962 were $33,042,700, comparing with $31,825,500 during the same period in 1961. Only three quarters were used in the comparisons because only during those periods of each year were tax rates identical.

Man In Chase Given Penalty On 4 Charges

A 30-year-old East Liverpool man arrested after a long pursuit by East Liverpool police early Sunday was penalized on four charges when he entered guilty pleas today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

The defendant is Marvin J. McCullough of Bloomfield, formerly of Chester. The charges and the penalties assessed by Judge Chertoff were:

Illegal auto registration and resisting arrest, $25 and costs each; reckless driving, $50 and costs, and driving an auto without an operator's permit, a 10-day suspended term in County Jail.

Acting at the suggestion of Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark, Judge Chertoff dismissed a fifth charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Police said McCullough was taken into custody by Lt. William E. McDaniel and Patrolmen Howard E. Frontz and Paul A. Burson Jr. after a pursuit that began on St. Clair Ave. near Avondale St. The chase led through Beechwood and into East End.

Officers said McCullough was forced to ditch his car on Lee St., but fled on foot over a steep hillside. He was arrested about 20 minutes later.

McCullough was represented by Atty. George A. Aronson.

Wellsville Chamber Will Be Reactivated

A reactivation program, including a membership drive, was discussed by the Wellsville Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors Tuesday night at the Carnegie Library.

The membership campaign will be held during the summer. John Bryer, president, conducted business.

The directors agreed to promote and set up a training program for sale and management personnel in retail stores, under auspices of the Ohio State Department of Education.

The training probably will be held in the fall.

Flames Char Woods Area, Man Injured

Over 300 acres of woodland and brush were burned off in a blaze battled for seven hours Tuesday north of Salineville in which one fireman was burned and others singed.

Fire Chief Tony Brandonisio of Salineville was treated by a physician for burns of the face and hands suffered while driving a pumper down a dirt road in a ravine when the wind - whipped flames leaped across the roadway.

Ohio Forestry Division fire fighters along with Salineville, Franklin Township and Fox Township firemen were working with the blaze until 8 p. m. and later.

The flames apparently spread from railroad tracks shortly before 1 p. m. The state forestry firemen used two trucks and a bulldozer besides other equipment in fighting the fire, which at times threatened homes and trailers in the area ranging about two miles north of Salineville in the Rose Run Hollow district.

Salineville firemen were summoned about 4 p. m. to fight a grass fire which burned off about two acres just east of the village.

Firemen Make Plans For Salineville Event

SALINEVILLE — Use of a lot adjacent to the Hart Motors of Main St. for the annual volunteer firemen's homecoming carnival was discussed at a meeting Tuesday night.

Firemen will hold the annual event July 8-13. Representatives of the firemen will confer with property owners for their permission.

holders received notice of a special meeting Sept. 13 to vote on a plan for liquidating the corporation.

At the Sept. 13 meeting the firm was given a brief new lease on life to allow the corporation's officers to negotiate "with certain prospects" interested in the plant.

However, despite repeated efforts, a purchaser never was located that would assure continued operation of the plant as an entity.

The firm announced on Sept. 29 that its stockholders had voted to liquidate the business and dissolve the 62-year-old operation. It meant an end to jobs for approximately 400 employes.

—:—

EARLY THIS year, the Archbold concern acquired the plant through purchase of the assets from the shareholders. It announced in early March that it was in the midst of negotiations with "several prospects" interested in continued operation of the plant, but the talks never bore fruit.

At that time, Yoder & Frey said it would sell the machinery and the other facilities separately if it was unable to dispose of the plant as a going concern.

The pottery suspended operations last Dec. 1, although some employes remained for a few days to make final shipments and close down operations.

The company was established at Chester in 1900 by Edwin M. Knowles, a son of Isaac Watt Knowles, founder of the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles Co.

In 1913, Knowles erected a 15-kiln factory at Newell. The Chester plant was sold about 1930 to the Harker Pottery Co.

Casters Receive 2 Delegate Posts In Vote Of Union

Men employed as sanitary casters on opposite ends of the continent have been elected as delegates from the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters to the annual AFL-CIO convention in New York City in November, the union announced today.

A tabulation made Tuesday on returns from the IBOP's general election May 7 showed the posts were won by Thomas P. Gallagher of Local 45 at Trenton—delegate from the area east of the Allegheny Mountains — and S. L. Fullerton of Local 218 in Torrance, Calif., delegate from the area west of the Allegheny.

They defeated Joseph Guadagno of Local 181 in Trenton and John W. Taylor of Local 220 in New Orleans.

The returns were tabulated here yesterday by a canvassing committee comprised of Robert W. Lord of Local 72 in Evansville, Ind., chairman; Frank M. Allison of Local 24 in East Liverpool and Violet Double of Local 201 in Huntington Park, Calif.

The four candidates for delegates were nominated earlier in a primary election.

Road Project 85% Finished

Work on relocation of Route 7 from Port Homer to Flag Pole Hill south of Wellsville is 85 per cent complete, the State Highway Department's Division 11 office at New Philadelphia said today in a progress report.

Length of the $2,623,975 project is 2.7 miles and the contractor is S. J. Groves & Sons, Inc.

Earl W. Nelson, division director, said relocation of a 2.7-mile stretch of Route 30 from East Liverpool to the Route 170 junction is 53 per cent completed and ahead of schedule.

Work on access roads is nearing completion on Route 62 in Salem. When access roads for abutting properties are completed, work will start on foundations for the overhead spanning the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks in Salem.

Work is about 41 per cent complete on a short relocation of State Route 172 east of New Garden. A bridge is being replaced by a large pipe.

—About 300 Ngeroes met in Selma, Ala., 100 miles to the south, to plan a voter registration drive. The sheriff and about 600 deputies stood guard, turning away carloads of white persons. No trouble was reported.

—An integrated group including actress Madeiline Sherwood planned a day-long vigil at a jail in Gadsden, Ala. where "freedom marchers" are held.

—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Southern integration leader, said in Cleveland, Ohio, that racial discrimination "must be uprooted from our society." He said desegregation in Birmingham would send repercussions throughout the South.

Giants Edge Bucs, Hold Lead; Hubbs' Homer Nips Cincy, 2-1

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

After plundering enemy territory with great success, the San Francisco Giants have returned to Candlestick Park—and find home isn't the worst place in the world to be, after all.

The Giants opened a two-week stand at San Francisco Tuesday night and squeezed out a 3-1 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates, with right-hander Jack Sanford registering the 100th victory of his National League career.

In a turnabout for the defending NL champions, Candlestick hasn't been a happy haven for them this season. They were a remarkable 61-21 there last year, while only 42-41 away from home. This spring they've won only 7 of 15 at Candlestick, but have feasted on the road at a 13-5 clip.

By winning Tuesday night, the Giants pushed 1½ games ahead in the league scramble. Wondrous Warren Spahn and the Milwaukee Braves trimmed St. Louis' second-place Cardinals 4-3. The Chicago Cubs, 2-1 winners over Cincinnati on Ken Hubbs' two-run homer in the eighth inning, moved into a virtual tie with Pittsburgh for third, 2½ games off the pace.

In other NL games, the Philadelphia Phillies beat Don Drysdale for the first time in five seasons in a 5-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers; and the Houston Colts posted their sixth straight victory and dumped New York into the cellar, edging the Mets 4-3.

San Francisco managed only four hits off Bob Friend in the seven innings he worked but bunched a walk to Willie Mays, singles by Wille McCovey and orlando Cepeda, an error and Joey Amalfitano's sacrifice fly for two runs in the fourth. They added another off Harvey Haddix in the eighth.

Wes Covington's eighth homer started the Phils off toward a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Drysdale, who had beaten Philadelphia 13 times in a row dating back to September 1958.

Cal McLish, who won it with a five-hitter, rapped two doubles and scored twice.

The Braves, who had lost three straight and nine of their last 10, pulled out of their skid behind Spahn. The 42-year-old southpaw wizard was touched for 11 hits and was banged in the abdomen by a liner off Stan Musial's bat in the second inning. He stuck it out for his fifth victory this year and his 332nd over-all.

The Cubs ended a losing string at four on Hubbs' homer in the last of the eighth. It came against Cincinnati lefty Joe Nuxhall after rookie right fielder Ken Walters dropped pinch hitter Ken Aspromonte's fly for a two-base error.

The Colts matched a club record with their sixth straight victory, but had to stave off another of the Mets' whirlwind finishes. Dick Farrell had checked the Mets on three hits and carried a 4-1 lead into the ninth, then got roughed up for two runs on Ron Hunt's single, a walk, two ground outs and Jim Hickman's single before getting the elusive last out.

Finished Third To Chateaugay

Preakness To Have 'Dash' Of Lemon Twist Saturday

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lemon Twist, an oddly-named thoroughbred, will be in the $150,000-added Preakness Saturday for an unusual reason: success achieved by a couple of horses that beat him.

Normally, a colt gets into a race with the stature of a Preakness on his own victories. Trainer Pete Keiser explained Lemon Twist's arrival at Pimlico from Chicago as an attempt to recoup his own miscalculations.

"When this colt finished Third to Chateaugay and Get Around in the Blue Grass," Keiser said today, "I didn't think he was beaten by horses as good as they showed they were later.

"Now, one wins the Derby (Chateaugay) and the other (Get Around) wins the Withers."

After the Blue Grass, trainer Keiser decided Lemon Twist had better skip the Kentucky Derby. "I guess you can say I got Candy Spots in my eyes," he said, speaking of the Derby favorite.

Keiser's views changed after Candy Spots finished third to Chateaugay and Never Bend in the Louisville classic.

Lemon Twist is owned by Theodore D. Buhl of Detroit. The Illinois Derby was his second triumph in nine races this year.

His opposition in the 1 3-16th mile Preakness will include the four best from the Kentucky Derby and at least two others.

John P. Galbreath's Chateaugay will be trying to get the second leg of the Triple Crown for 3-year-old colts, while his closest Derby challengers, Harry F. Guggenheim's Never Bend, Rex Ellsworth's Candy Spots, and Ambush Stable's On My Honor will be hoping to get back into the championship picture.

Also counted upon when entries close Thursday morning are Jacnot Stable's Country Squire and Mrs. C. D. Morgan's Sky Wonders. Country Squire qualified by taking Monday's Preakness Prep and Sky Wonder off a runner-up finish to Get Around in last Saturday's Withers.

One-Second Balk Rule Is Officially Changed

NEW YORK (AP)—The tick of the clock controversy that had brought about such a monumental rhubarb in major league baseball this season has been settled.

Baseball's Rules Committee, acting on the suggestion of Commissioner Ford Frick and the two league presidents, officially deleted the one-second aspect from the balk rule by unanimous vote Tuesday.

National League umpires went on a balk-calling binge this season, playing it strictly by the book. Before the rule was amended, it read that a pitcher must stop in his set position for one full second when anyone was on base. The penalty—advance of runners one base.

American League umpires required the full stop, but did not enforce the time element.

By a week ago, 96 balks had been charged in the National—20 over the old full season record for one league—and only eight in the American. In one NL game, five were called against Bob Shaw of Milwaukee, and twice seven were called in a game.

Frick then declared a moratorium on the one-second phrase, and turned the matter over to the rules committee. Chairman Charles Segar, also secretary of baseball, polled the members by telegram—rather than wait until the next formal meeting in December.

In effect, the rule reverts to the wording prior to 1950, which was that a pitcher must stop but the length of time does not matter.

The change affects all teams using official rules.

Chisox Ace Twirls 3-0 Win Over Detroit; A's Top Tribe

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

One of these days someone is going to get a run off Ray Herbert. Sure they are. But don't hold your breath, Charley.

The Chicago White Sox ace hasn't been scored upon in four straight games and gives no indication he's going to ease up. His next scheduled outing will send him against Minnesota's struggling Twins, who have been blanked six times this season.

The 33-year-old right-hander, a trade bait a couple of years ago but a 20-game winner last season, spaced six hits in scoring his fourth consecutive shutout Tuesday night, a 3-0 decision over Detroit.

The victory enabled the American League leading White Sox to retain their one-game lead over Kansas City, 5-2 victors over Cleveland.

New York's Yankees scored a 2-1 triumph over Minnesota behind Whitey Ford's five-hit pitching and veteran Robin Roberts won his first game of the season after four losses, pitching Baltimore to a 6-1 decision over Washington.

The Los Angeles Angels' game at Boston was rained out.

Kansas City rushed in four first-inning runs, two on a blooping double by Jerry Lumpe, then held off Cleveland on the six-hit pitching of Ed Rakow.

The Yankees' Ford got the benefit of an unearned run in winning his fourth straight. Hector Lopez singled in the tie-breaking run after the Minnesota infield had messed up two potential double plays in the eighth.

Roberts tossed a four-hitter for the Orioles, with his shutout bid spoiled by Larry Osborne's homer. Homers by Jim Gentile and Boog Powell helped him to a 4-0 lead in the third inning.

Giants Edge Bucs, Hold Lead; Hubbs' Homer Nips Cincy, 2-1

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

After plundering enemy territory with great success, the San Francisco Giants have returned to Candlestick Park—and find home isn't the worst place in the world to be, after all.

The Giants opened a two-week stand at San Francisco Tuesday night and squeezed out a 3-1 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates, with right-hander Jack Sanford registering the 100th victory of his National League career.

In a turnabout for the defending NL champions, Candlestick hasn't been a happy haven for them this season. They were a remarkable 61-21 there last year, while only 42-41 away from home. This spring they've won only 7 of 15 at Candlestick, but have feasted on the road at a 13-5 clip.

By winning Tuesday night, the Giants pushed 1½ games ahead in the league scramble. Wondrous Warren Spahn and the Milwaukee Braves trimmed St. Louis' second-place Cardinals 4-3. The Chicago Cubs, 2-1 winners over Cincinnati on Ken Hubbs' two-run homer in the eighth inning, moved into a virtual tie with Pittsburgh for third, 2½ games off the pace.

In other NL games, the Philadelphia Phillies beat Don Drysdale for the first time in five seasons in a 5-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers; and the Houston Colts posted their sixth straight victory and dumped New York into the cellar, edging the Mets 4-3.

San Francisco managed only four hits off Bob Friend in the seven innings he worked but bunched a walk to Willie Mays, singles by Wille McCovey and orlando Cepeda, an error and Joey Amalfitano's sacrifice fly for two runs in the fourth. They added another off Harvey Haddix in the eighth.

Wes Covington's eighth homer started the Phils off toward a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Drysdale, who had beaten Philadelphia 13 times in a row dating back to September 1958.

Cal McLish, who won it with a five-hitter, rapped two doubles and scored twice.

The Braves, who had lost three straight and nine of their last 10, pulled out of their skid behind Spahn. The 42-year-old southpaw wizard was touched for 11 hits and was banged in the abdomen by a liner off Stan Musial's bat in the second inning. He stuck it out for his fifth victory this year and his 332nd over-all.

The Cubs ended a losing string at four on Hubbs' homer in the last of the eighth. It came against Cincinnati lefty Joe Nuxhall after rookie right fielder Ken Walters dropped pinch hitter Ken Aspromonte's fly for a two-base error.

The Colts matched a club record with their sixth straight victory, but had to stave off another of the Mets' whirlwind finishes. Dick Farrell had checked the Mets on three hits and carried a 4-1 lead into the ninth, then got roughed up for two runs on Ron Hunt's single, a walk, two ground outs and Jim Hickman's single before getting the elusive last out.

Finished Third To Chateaugay

Preakness To Have 'Dash' Of Lemon Twist Saturday

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lemon Twist, an oddly-named thoroughbred, will be in the $150,000-added Preakness Saturday for an unusual reason: success achieved by a couple of horses that beat him.

Normally, a colt gets into a race with the stature of a Preakness on his own victories. Trainer Pete Keiser explained Lemon Twist's arrival at Pimlico from Chicago as an attempt to recoup his own miscalculations.

"When this colt finished Third to Chateaugay and Get Around in the Blue Grass," Keiser said today, "I didn't think he was beaten by horses as good as they showed they were later.

"Now, one wins the Derby (Chateaugay) and the other (Get Around) wins the Withers."

After the Blue Grass, trainer Keiser decided Lemon Twist had better skip the Kentucky Derby. "I guess you can say I got Candy Spots in my eyes," he said, speaking of the Derby favorite.

Keiser's views changed after Candy Spots finished third to Chateaugay and Never Bend in the Louisville classic.

Lemon Twist is owned by Theodore D. Buhl of Detroit. The Illinois Derby was his second triumph in nine races this year.

His opposition in the 1 3-16th mile Preakness will include the four best from the Kentucky Derby and at least two others.

John P. Galbreath's Chateaugay will be trying to get the second leg of the Triple Crown for 3-year-old colts, while his closest Derby challengers, Harry F. Guggenheim's Never Bend, Rex Ellsworth's Candy Spots, and Ambush Stable's On My Honor will be hoping to get back into the championship picture.

Also counted upon when entries close Thursday morning are Jacnot Stable's Country Squire and Mrs. C. D. Morgan's Sky Wonders. Country Squire qualified by taking Monday's Preakness Prep and Sky Wonder off a runner-up finish to Get Around in last Saturday's Withers.

Freese Goes To San Diego With .174 Average

CHICAGO (AP)—It was no surprise to Cincinnati Reds fans to see Gene Freese sent down to San Diego in exchange for catcher-first sacker Don Pavletich.

"I wanted him to play up here," said Manager Fred Hutchinson after Freese was sent down Tuesday. "But he just didn't get the job done.

Freese will get the chance to play regularly at San Diego and if he solves his problems, we'll not hesitate to recall him."

Pavletich slated to report to the Reds today, shows strong hitting promise. He was batting .303, with six homers and 19 runs batted in at San Diego.

Freese, 29, came through with heavy hitting in the Reds' drive to the National League flat in 1961. But he broke his ankle in spring drills last year and saw virtually no action. In 17 games this season, he has only a .174 batting average.

The Chicago Cubs beat the Reds 2-1 Tuesday as Cincinnati spoiled another fine pitching job by failing to produce timely hitting.

Joe Nuxhall scattered seven hits brilliantly, but the Reds couldn't give him any run making support.

The only Cincinnati run came in the eighth after catcher Johnny Edwards slammed a leadoff single. Coleman sacrificed and Nuxhall drove in the marker with a single to center.

The Cubs scored both their runs off Nuxhall in the eighth.

The second of three games planned against the Cubs was scheduled today with the Reds' Jim Maloney opposing the Cubs' Glenn Hobbie.

Pacifist Faces Court For Evasion Of Draft

CLEVELAND (AP)—John Lewis Christian, who says he is a pacifist, tore up his draft card and mailed it to the secretary of his Draft Board. "Please be so kind as to inform the board that I am no longer willing to cooperate with the draft system," the 23-year-old Painesville man wrote in the letter in which he enclosed his torn-up draft card.

He will appear Friday in U.S. District Court for arraignment on a draft evasion charge. He waived preliminary hearing Tuesday and was released on $500 bond.

Freese Goes To San Diego With .174 Average

CHICAGO (AP)—It was no surprise to Cincinnati Reds fans to see Gene Freese sent down to San Diego in exchange for catcher-first sacker Don Pavletich.

"I wanted him to play up here," said Manager Fred Hutchinson after Freese was sent down Tuesday. "But he just didn't get the job done.

Freese will get the chance to play regularly at San Diego and if he solves his problems, we'll not hesitate to recall him."

Pavletich slated to report to the Reds today, shows strong hitting promise. He was batting .303, with six homers and 19 runs batted in at San Diego.

FIELD AND STREAM

By R. L. LIDE

Fishing was very good at Lake Guilford over the past week, with some outstanding catches being made by various individuals.

The largest bass taken that has come to my attention was a 6-pound-1-ounce lunker taken by Bob Flannery of Lake Guilford. Bob has it on display in a live tank at his bait house. Eddie Jones of Toronto landed one bass weighing 3 pounds, 5 ounches, along with three other smaller bass.

One walleye weighing 7½ pounds and measuring 27½ inches was caught by a local resident of Guilford, although I could not find out his name. Dr. Charles Waggoner of East Liverpool landed a walleye 27 inches long and weighing 6 pounds. It was taken on a white nylon jig with a pork rind streamer.

—:—

MOST EVERYONE landed all the bullheads, crappies, bluegills, carp and a few channel cats that they wanted to take home and have a fish fry. In this class of fish you have to select the larger ones and get rid of the undesirable smaller fish.

At Zepernick Lake, you will find most of the fishermen come from the Stark County area, with Canton supplying the majority and Alliance running second. Bullheads and bluegills provide the larger stringers, while an occasional eastern chain pickerel and largemouth bass make up the creel assortment.

At Westville Lake, bass and crappies have been taken in goodly numbers, although no record-breakers have come to my attention.

This lake is supported mostly by Alliance fishermen, along with local residents. At least it is a consistent lake where all the fishermen usually take home enough fish to provide a good day's fishing and come back for more.

—:—

GOOD FISHING can be had at all our pay lakes, although I can't see much to fishing a stocked lake where it is possible to take large stringers of trout and channel cats, fish that aren't native to the waters. You get all the action of catching fish in their natural environments even if it is a dump-and-catch proposition.

Actually, the walleyes being taken at Lake Guilford were "dumped", but it would be real news if someone landed a 12-inch walleye which would prove there was a reproduction. It is very possible that the recently-stocked northern pike at Guilford will reproduce.

I hope that anyone catching a small member of the pike family either will notify me about it in order to make positive identification or else turn the fish over to any of the concessionnaires at Guilford, who will pass the information along to me. It is very important to know if fish reproduce after being stocked.

FIELD AND STREAM

By R. L. LIDE

Fishing was very good at Lake Guilford over the past week, with some outstanding catches being made by various individuals.

The largest bass taken that has come to my attention was a 6-pound-1-ounce lunker taken by Bob Flannery of Lake Guilford. Bob has it on display in a live tank at his bait house. Eddie Jones of Toronto landed one bass weighing 3 pounds, 5 ounches, along with three other smaller bass.

One walleye weighing 7½ pounds and measuring 27½ inches was caught by a local resident of Guilford, although I could not find out his name. Dr. Charles Waggoner of East Liverpool landed a walleye 27 inches long and weighing 6 pounds. It was taken on a white nylon jig with a pork rind streamer.

—:—

MOST EVERYONE landed all the bullheads, crappies, bluegills, carp and a few channel cats that they wanted to take home and have a fish fry. In this class of fish you have to select the larger ones and get rid of the undesirable smaller fish.

At Zepernick Lake, you will find most of the fishermen come from the Stark County area, with Canton supplying the majority and Alliance running second. Bullheads and bluegills provide the larger stringers, while an occasional eastern chain pickerel and largemouth bass make up the creel assortment.

At Westville Lake, bass and crappies have been taken in goodly numbers, although no record-breakers have come to my attention.

This lake is supported mostly by Alliance fishermen, along with local residents. At least it is a consistent lake where all the fishermen usually take home enough fish to provide a good day's fishing and come back for more.

—:—

GOOD FISHING can be had at all our pay lakes, although I can't see much to fishing a stocked lake where it is possible to take large stringers of trout and channel cats, fish that aren't native to the waters. You get all the action of catching fish in their natural environments even if it is a dump-and-catch proposition.

Actually, the walleyes being taken at Lake Guilford were "dumped", but it would be real news if someone landed a 12-inch walleye which would prove there was a reproduction. It is very possible that the recently-stocked northern pike at Guilford will reproduce.

I hope that anyone catching a small member of the pike family either will notify me about it in order to make positive identification or else turn the fish over to any of the concessionnaires at Guilford, who will pass the information along to me. It is very important to know if fish reproduce after being stocked.

CHILDREN AND POISONS DON'T MIX

Curiosity is both a blessing and a danger to young children. A blessing because it is a search for knowledge, but a danger because it can sometimes lead to an accidental poisoning. When you have very young children a special effort must be made to keep anything that might be harmful safely out of reach.

When children are old enough to understand they should be strongly cautioned about harmful substances. Should an accidental poisoning occur, or if you should even suspect one, summon your physician at once. If an emergency, call us and we will help you locate a physician quickly.

Youngstown Rabbi Speaks

Rotary Guest Discusses 'High Cost Of Worrying'

Worried about the deadline on last month's rent, or sweating out a trip to the dentist next week?

"Decide the worst possible fate, reconcile yourself to the worst thing that can happen to you, and start to improve on the situation."

That formula to rid tension and worry was suggested by Dr. Sidney M. Berkowitz of Youngstown in addressing the Rotary Club on "The High Cost of Worry" Tuesday afternoon in the Travelers Hotel.

There is a direct relationship between worry and health, the rabbi of Rodef Sholom Temple told the club.

Links between worry and tooth decay, and between tension and arthritis in some cases, have been established, he said. In addition, worry brings on emotional diseases, and one out of every six men examined for induction in the last war were found suffering from diseases directly attributed to worry.

Dr. Berkowitz also pointed out that of 176 men who claimed to be in perfect health at age 44, one-third were found suffering from diseases attributed to worry and tension in examinations at the Mayo Clinic.

"The Lord may forgive us of our sins, but our nervous system will not," the speaker said.

Dr. Berkowitz said the law of averages may be used to help outlaw worry. "Ninety-nine percent of the things we worry about never happen," he said. "If they did, insurance companies would go bankrupt."

He also warned against worry over "little things," triviliaties that can destroy homes and relationships. "Crowd them out by trying to keep busy," he said.

Dr. Berkowitz, who was chosen as Youngstown's "Outstanding Citizen" in 1952, suggested these pointers for a happy outlook on life: "fill your mind with happy thoughts, don't try to get even with your enemies, and don't worry about ingratitude, expect it from life."

"Learn how to turn your minuses into plusses. If life gave you a lemon, learn how to make lemonade out of it," he said. Dr. Berkowitz illustrated his points with humorous anecdotes.

A member of the Youngstown Rotary Club for 16 years, the speaker also suggested that learning how to relax once in a while can also help eliminate tenseness and worry.

"Your heart knows how to relax, if it can take time off so can you," he said. "Learn to close your eyes once in a while during the day, as the eye muscles require one-fourth of the body energy," he added.

He concluded with a short rhyme and prayer about worry and attitude. Dr. Berkowitz also spoke to the club in 1959. He was introduced by Dr. J. W. Schoolnic, program chairman.

Sidney C. Porter Jr., president, read a letter of greetings from a club in India. The local club will reciprocate, also sending a flag. Porter announced the Rotary International convention is June 9-13 at St. Louis, Mo.

Officers Nab Alabama Man In Auto Theft

Six minutes after an East Liverpool man's auto had been reported stolen from Webber Way Tuesday afternoon, two patrolmen halted the car on Route 7 near Wellsville and took a 45-year-old Alabama transient into custody, police reported.

Patrolmen William A. Devon and L. E. Richard cited James Howard Marcum of Jasper, Ala., for the theft of a four-door sedan owned by Grant Stover of McKinnon Ave., charging him with driving an auto without the owner's consent.

Stover told police his auto was taken from the Webber Way parking place between 2:20 and 2:41 yesterday. At 2:47, Marcum was in custody, officers reported.

Arraigned today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on an auto theft charge signed by the two officers, Marcum pleaded not guilty and asked to be bound over to the Grand Jury. The judge granted his request and fixed bond at $5,000.

Before setting bond, Judge Chertoff asked Officer Devon if Marcum has a criminal record. The officer replied that the department has requested his record from the FBI, but it has not arrived.

However, Marcum told the local department he has served time in two federal penitentiaries and an Alabama prison on charges of auto theft and burglary, Officer Devon told the court.

Marcum told police he took the car because he was a frustrated hitch-hiker. He said he stood on Webber Way "for a long time," trying unsuccessfully to get a ride to Steubenville. Then he saw Stover's parked car and noted that the keys were in the ignition, so he got in and drove away, he related.

Officers Devon and Richard were in a cruiser on Pleasant Heights when they received a radioed report of the theft and the information that the car had been seen headed toward Wellsville. They proceeded south on Lisbon St. and turned west on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd. The patrolmen spotted the car at Kountz Ave., forced it to the curb and arrested Marcum.

When Stover saw his car disappear toward Wellsville, he hopped into a truck and gave chase, but did not overtake it, police said. Marcum may have turned off on Shadyside Ave. and then rejoined the Wellsville Rd. via the Campground Rd., accounting for the fact Stover could not find him, police said.

They will leave 7:30 p. m. at the Community Parking lot for the meeting place in the Pennsylvania Railroad YMCA at Conway.

George Fletcher and the social committee served refreshments to 30. Guests were Walter Henthorne of Wellsville and Mel Gittens and Dick Grace of Beaver.

Kennedy Delaying Decision On More Rights Power Bid

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is delaying a decision on asking Congress for broad federal authority in civil rights cases while awaiting the results of efforts to end racial disturbances in the South.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, said a request for authority to permit the attorney general to initiate cases for individuals alleged to have been denied their rights remains a possibility.

Humphrey said Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy "does not feel at this time the need for this authority," because the President's brother felt any such immediate request might agitate the situation in Birmingham, Ala., and elsewhere.

But Humphrey said he is confident there will be a decision made later on whether to add the controvesial proposal to the administration's voting rights recommendations now before Congress.

Any such request would be likely to result in a stormy Senate filibuster by Southern opponents of civil rights measures. The political explosion that would greet any administration push to get action on such a bill could easily endanger congressional passage of a tax reduction to which Kennedy has given No. 1 priority in this session.

But the administration is under pressure from Northern Democrats and Negro leaders to move faster in the civil rights field than it thus far has shown a willingness to go.

Senators Seek Airing Of Plane Fare Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators angered by the U.S. backdown on a fare increase on transatlantic air routes called government officials today for a public airing of the international dispute.

In advance of an afternoon hearing of the Senate Commerce Committee, Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., protested this country had capitulated without a fight.

He estimated a 5 per cent increase in round-trip economy class fares will cost Americans traveling to Europe about $15 million a year.

What does it mean to the individual passenger? He will be paying an extra $27 for his New York-London economy (tourist) roundtrip ticket, according to State Department officials. His fare will go up from $486 to $513.

The increase voted last fall by the International Air Transport Association—IATA—actually is a reduction in the discount allowed for return tickets—5 per cent instead of 10 per cent.

The change went into effect Saturday in Europe, but until Tuesday the Civil Aeronautics Board had refused to permit American Airlines to adopt the higher fares.

It announced then through an exchange of letters between CAB Chairman Alan S. Boyd and Secretary of State Dean Rusk that it was yielding to diplomatic pressure.

Rusk had suggested that in the absence of CAB authority to regulate international air route fares, Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines should be permitted to file the increased fares.

But Pan American said it planned to continue present rates for several days "until the situation clarifies." Trans World also seemed in no hurry to act.

Brenda Gillespie, 11, daughter of James Gillespie of 6th St., Newell, suffered a fractured left arm in a fall while playing basketball.

In a fall from a bicycle, Gary Hissom, 14, son of Clyde Hissom, 127 Pennsylvania Ave., Chester, suffered a laceration of the left arm.

Traffic Light Placed At W. 3rd, Jefferson

A new traffic light went into service Tuesday afternoon on W. 3rd St. at Jefferson St. — the access route to the new California Hollow - West End Freeway.

The signal was erected by Electrician Fred Kane and assistant, George Fone. The light was requested of Council and the administration several months ago after the opening of the Freeway shunted traffic on Routes 7, 30 and 39 along the stretch of the once quiet residential street.

The W. 3rd St. residents said the signal was needed particularly to aid pedestrians, including school children, in crossing the busy thoroughfare.

Senators Seek Airing Of Plane Fare Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators angered by the U.S. backdown on a fare increase on transatlantic air routes called government officials today for a public airing of the international dispute.

In advance of an afternoon hearing of the Senate Commerce Committee, Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., protested this country had capitulated without a fight.

He estimated a 5 per cent increase in round-trip economy class fares will cost Americans traveling to Europe about $15 million a year.

What does it mean to the individual passenger? He will be paying an extra $27 for his New York-London economy (tourist) roundtrip ticket, according to State Department officials. His fare will go up from $486 to $513.

The increase voted last fall by the International Air Transport Association—IATA—actually is a reduction in the discount allowed for return tickets—5 per cent instead of 10 per cent.

The change went into effect Saturday in Europe, but until Tuesday the Civil Aeronautics Board had refused to permit American Airlines to adopt the higher fares.

It announced then through an exchange of letters between CAB Chairman Alan S. Boyd and Secretary of State Dean Rusk that it was yielding to diplomatic pressure.

Rusk had suggested that in the absence of CAB authority to regulate international air route fares, Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines should be permitted to file the increased fares.

But Pan American said it planned to continue present rates for several days "until the situation clarifies." Trans World also seemed in no hurry to act.

Traffic Light Placed At W. 3rd, Jefferson

A new traffic light went into service Tuesday afternoon on W. 3rd St. at Jefferson St. — the access route to the new California Hollow - West End Freeway.

The signal was erected by Electrician Fred Kane and assistant, George Fone. The light was requested of Council and the administration several months ago after the opening of the Freeway shunted traffic on Routes 7, 30 and 39 along the stretch of the once quiet residential street.

The W. 3rd St. residents said the signal was needed particularly to aid pedestrians, including school children, in crossing the busy thoroughfare.

There are 60 eligible voters in the county. These producers filed a signed allotment notice with the county ASC office by last Monday, which was the deadline date for an allotment grower.

IRONDALE — The annual community cleanup campaign got under way Monday and free pickup of trash is slated Friday night and all day Saturday.

Cooper Thought About Space Flying As A Boy

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —As a boy, Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. read Buck Rogers in the funny papers and wondered whether man would fly into space before the 25th century.

Today he's amazed at the swiftness of events which have sent astronauts into space in his lifetime—and his participation as one of the pioneers of this great effort.

If anyone seemed destined for space flight, it was Cooper. He has been flying as long as he can remember.

His father, an Air Force colonel, was a close friend of such aviation greats as Wiley Post and Amelia Earhart, and Gordon used to listen intrigued to their flying conversations. The elder Cooper took his son aloft almost before he could walk.

"Gordo"—as his fellow astronauts call him—recalls first handling the controls of a plane when he was 6 and flying his first solo at 16.

Cooper's mother says her son always was interested in airplanes.

"Gordon made a lot of model planes," she reported recently at her Carbondale, Colo., home. "Later, when he was a senior in high school at Shawnee, Okla., he had a good friend who ran an airport. Gordon worked there to pay for flying instruction. He soloed then, while his father was serving with the Air Force in the Pacific."

The senior Cooper died of cancer in 1960.

Cooper, a Methodist, was born March 6, 1927, in Shawnee. After graduation from high school in 1945, he entered the Marine Corps and spent some time at the Naval Academy Preparatory School. After his discharge in 1946 he attended the University of Hawaii for three years.

At the university, he met and married the former Trudy Olson of Seattle, Wash. Under Cooper's instruction, Trudy soon had a pilot's license. The couple explored the Hawaiian islands in a Piper Cub. They took their first baby for a plane ride soon after she was born.

The Coopers now have two daughters, Camala, 14, and Janita, 13. They live in Houston, Tex., site of the manned spacecraft center.

While at the University of Hawaii, Cooper received an Army commission, which he transferred to the Air Force. In 1949, he was called by that service for extended flight duty. After training he was assigned to the 86th fighter-bomber group in Munich, Germany, where he piloted F84s and F86s for four years.

He later attended the Air Force Institute of Technology at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, and earned a bachelor's degree in aeronautical engineering in 1956.

He then was assigned to the Air Force experimental flight test school, Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and helped design and test experimental fighter aircraft.

Cooper, now an Air Force major, has logged more than 2,600 hours flying time, 1,600 in jets.

Balloting Ends In Hot OSU Alumni Association Election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Balloting ends today in one of the hottest election campaigns ever staged by the Ohio State University (Alumni) Association.

Outcome of the election—with candidates running on specific platforms for the first time in association history—will not be known until at least May 25. But the deadline for ballots is 5 p.m. today.

In the background of the election is along standing controversy over policies of the association's secretary, John B. (Jack) Fullen. A faction opposing Fullens' handling of alumni affairs and its publication, the Ohio State Monthly, has been at work for many months trying to change the composition of the present association administration.

This faction, known as the Committee for Advancement of Ohio State University (CAOSU) is headed by John D. Cole of Springfield. The current "in-power" faction, known as the "Main Track Slate," is headed by Willard M. Kiplinger.

The anti-Fullen faction, in its campaign, has never said it would oust Fullen if it gains a victory, although campus observers think this is a likely possibility. The Main Track Slate however, says specifically in its platform that "we endorse the administration of our secretary, Mr. John B. Fullen."

The CAOSU slate includes Dr. James R. (Jimmy) Hull, president; Frederick Mackey, first vice president; Mrs. Harold Voss, second vice president; Donald Power, board member, and Ralph Hoyer, treasurer.

The Main Track candidates are Howard L. Hamilton, president; Cyril T. Surington, first vice president; Hazel Zeller Nesbitt, second vice president; Harlan O. Davis, treasurer, and John M. Vorys, board member.

Criticism against Fullen began a few years ago because of his stand against what he termed over - emphasis of football and his "anti-Rose Bowl" attitude.

Congress Cuts Military Funds By $44 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

MILITARY BUYING: Congress has approved and sent to President Kennedy a bill authorizing military purchases of $15.3 billion.

This is $44.4 million less than the administration requested. The reduction actually was deeper, for included in the authorization was $363.7 million for construction of two additional RS70 planes—money the administration didn't ask and probably won't spend.

All told, Congress denied some $408 million of the military procurement the Pentagon originally proposed.

The authorization, which the House completed final legislative action on Tuesday, only sets ceilings. The subsequent appropriation may trim the spending further.

CIVIL RIGHTS: Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has postponed his appearance before a House Judiciary subcommittee holding hearings on the administration's proposed civil rights legislation.

He was scheduled to testify today but a subcommittee spokesman said Kennedy asked that his testimony be heard later.

POWELL TRAVEL: The House has refused to approve an overseas trip next month for four members of the Education and Labor Committee headed by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y.

But its refusal—on a 217 to 153 roll call—won't keep Powell and a Republican colleague from making the trip. As official House delegates to the International Labor Organization conference in Geneva, their expenses will be paid by the State Department.

The House vote was on a resolution that would have allowed two delegates and two alternates to go from the committee with their expenses to be paid from appropriated funds or from foreign currencies available to the State Department.

Republicans and Southern Democrats provided most of the votes defeating the resolution.

The delegates, named by the House speaker, will be Powell and Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio. Left behind will be Reps. James Roosevelt, D-Calif., and Charles E. Goodell R-N.Y.

UNEMPLOYMENT TAX: By voice vote, the Senate approved Tuesday legislation to reduce employers' 1963 payroll tax payments under the temporary extended unemployment compensation act.

The bill would reduce from .4 per cent to .25 per cent the payroll tax rate under the law enacted in 1961 to provide extended benefits for jobless persons.

District Parks Preparing For Opening On May 30

Memorial Day is only 15 days away and crews in Tri-State district parks are rushing cleanups and making other preparations for the traditional start of the summer outing season May 30.

Most parks have been open to picnicking since mild weather arrived but regular operations will await the holiday, including swimming.

The severe winter nearly doubled the work to prepare Thompson Park and the municipal swimming pool for the summer season, William Bell, superintendent, said.

No date has been set for the opening of the pool, which usually is Memorial Day, Bell said. The Board of Thompson Park Commissioners may meet this week to make final arrangements and hire personnel, he added.

The park has been open since April 1 and several families already have held picnics, Bell said.

Roads in the park have been widened, charcoal ovens and tables put in place and 15 new benches installed, Bell said.

New water lines were run to the north picnic area and to the horseshoe courts.

The severe winter damaged the bottom of the swimming pool and the walks.

The pool walls have been repainted and the pool bottom will be patched with a special compound, Bell said. In addition, some 100 feet of copper tubing on filter lines feeding the pool had to be replaced.

New diving boards will be installed and new benches are ready to be set out, Bell concluded.

Swimming at Raccoon State Park will open May 30. Hours will be 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily.

A new grass area and a new parking lot have been constructed at the beach. The park is open now for boaters and picnickers, according to the office of George Armstrong, superintendent.

The park is located on Route 30 about 15 miles east of East Liverpool.

Pumping operations have been started to fill the large, outdoor swimming pool at Tomlinson Run State Park in Pughtown.

N. T. Holbrook, park superintendent, said filling the 450 000-gallon capacity pool requires from five to six days. The pool will open officially May 30.

Located on State Route 2, the pool was damaged by the severe winter weather, but repairs have been completed. Pipe two feet beneath the ground burst in the freezing weather, Holbrook said. The pool will not be painted until next year.

Tomlinson's boat docks and picnic areas opened April 27 with the start of the trout fishing season.

The youth camp, featuring a new activities building, will open May 24 and is booked solid by groups of youngsters until June 6. The 30-x-60-foot building has a stage and fire place for activities of Girl Scouts, 4-H Club members and others. Cost of the building was $10,000, financed by a county park improvement levy.

Work will begin soon on a $7,000 project of blacktopping a rough stretch of road from the main park entrance along Route 2 to near the superintendent's dwelling in the park.

Holbrook said large crowds are expected on Memorial Day, traditional opening of the picnic season.

Rock Springs Park in Chester will launch its summer season on Memorial Day, but will begin the annual school picnic schedule May 24 with South Side schools, Robert Hand, manager, said.

Wellsville and Toronto schools will have picnics at the park May 25.

With the start of the summer programs May 30, the park will be open Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights during the week and Saturday and Sunday from 1 p. m.

The park will be closed Mondays and Tuesdays, Hand said.

The Veterans Swimming Pool in Midland will open for the season on May 30.

While school is in session, the pool will not open until late afternoon. After then, the hours will be extended.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR FOLKS: So many of you all have asked, "Can eggs be frozen?" that here is our answer. . . after much research. It comes from a food economist.

Dear Heloise: Your question: "can eggs be frozen?"

Yes, eggs may be frozen, whole, or as yolks and white separately. Only the highest quality eggs should be used for freezing.

Top quality eggs, properly prepared, packed and freezer stored, hold their quality well for nine months to a year. For freezing, use a rigid container such as heavily waxed cups, plastic or metal freezer boxes.

Containers should be small enough to hold just the quantity of egg to be used at one time or for one recipe. To allow for expansion of egg during freezing, leave ½ to ¾-inch headspace, depending upon the size of container. Whether to add sweetening or salt depends on how the egg is to be used, i.e., for cake or dessert or for scrambled egg or main dish.

Whole Egg: Break into measuring cup. Add ½ tablespoon sugar or corn syrup per one cup eggs or ½ teaspoon salt. Stir with fork or beater enough to mix thoroughly but not enough to whip in air. Put through a food mill or into container, seal, label and medium — mesh strainer. Pour into container, seal, label and freeze.

Egg Yolks: To each cup of yolks add 1 tablespoon sugar or syrup or ½ teaspoon salt and mix thoroughly. Strain, pour into container, seal and freeze.

Egg White: When separating whites and yolks, avoid getting even a droplet of yolk in the white. If a trace gets in, remove with tip of spoon. Otherwise whites will not whip well. Put whites through food mill or strainer. Pour in container, seal and freeze. No sugar or salt need be added to whites.

To use Frozen Eggs: Thaw in container in refrigerator, use promptly. Once thawed, frozen eggs are highly perishable. Substitute for fresh eggs in recipes as follows; 2½ tablespoons whole egg for 1 egg, 1 tablespoon yolk for 1 egg yolk; 1½ tablespoon white for one eggwhite.

So gals, when eggs are on sale . . . buy em!

Watch for the ads in the paper and don't let this bargain pass you by. Comes the time when eggs are about the price of gold nuggets . . . then enjoy 'em without choke-i-n-g-!

Isn't life fantabulous?

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I pack three lunches every morning. Naturally . . . they are sandwiches.

I find that after I make my sandwiches and they are lined up on the drain board that it is far easier to use my ordinary pancake turner, slide it under the sandwich, lift open the paper bag and slide the sandwich into the paperbag just like I would a pancake!

This keeps the sandwiches with soft filling from falling apart. Also you can use that same pancake turner to open that waxed paper bag beautifully. Just slide it inside the bag and see!

BETTY VIGGIANO.

DEAR HELOISE: Patched britches seem to be out of style but our kids sport the greatest patched knees and seats ever and they love it.

After pinning the patch in place, roll up a large magazine and insert it in the trouser leg, then turn the magazine loose and it will fill the pants leg while you iron on the patch (or sew it). Wonderful.

'Visiting' Firemen Entertain Brownies

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—One little troop of Brownies went to visit the fire station and one little troop stayed home.

When the first troop arrived at the station, the fire trucks were speeding away.

After half an hour, Mrs. William R. Delay, troop leader, took the girls back to St. Elizabeth's Catholic church.

There they found the firemen were just leaving after putting out a fire in a ventilating fan—and greatly entertaining the Brownies who stayed home.

Case Of Boy, 4, Due Grand Jury In June

EATON, Ohio (AP) — Prosecutor Everett Fahrenholz says he expects to be ready early next month to bring the case of Jamie Jones, 4, to the Preble County grand jury.

Dr. Richard Siehl, county coroner ruled the boy's death a homicide Tuesday, and said the youngster died March 25 at the home of adoptive parents, of peritonitis due to a blow to the abdomen. The boy died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Jones.

Mailmen Get 'Bombs' To Use Against Dogs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five hundred aerosol spray dog bombs will be given to San Francisco mail carriers today to be used against dogs who attack them, a Post Office spokesman said.

The spray cans, about four inches long and shaped like lipsticks, are filled with a solution of mineral oil and oil of capsicum —an extract of cayenne pepper.

Steel Work On New Span Nearly Finished

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two of the four final 30-ton steel beams linking the mid-section of the new Interstate 75 highway bridge across the Ohio River to Covington, Ky., went into place Tuesday. The other two were slated to be connected today.

Builders hope to have the double - deck span open for traffic by the end of the year.

In fiscal 1962, the Bureau of Customs collected $1,650,000,000.

Engineer Firm Says Water System Faulty

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland consulting engineering firm reports the water system accepted in 1961 by Lakeville village before it merged with Conneaut is faulty resulting in water losses of 10 million gallons in 1962 and 13 million gallons in 1961.

The loss, says Conneaut Mayor Stanley Robertson, represents the difference between the amount purchased from the Ashtabula water works and that which shows up on customer meters. That means the city isn't getting all the water it's paying for.

Play Ends In Tragedy

CINCINNATI (AP) — A playful game of hide-and-seek ended in tragedy Tuesday when Timothy R. Easter, 3, drowned in 4-foot-deep water in a Blue Ash neighbor's cistern.

Local Rebel Faction Loses 3 Decisions

CINCINNATI (AP) — A rebel faction in Boiler Makers Local 105 has lost three decisions—two in courts and one to the National Labor Relations Board. The 3rd District Ohio Appeals Court Tuesday ruled that union leaders rightly moved the local headquarters from Cincinnati to Chillicothe several years ago after a dispute over dues.

The 1st District Court Tuesday rejected the rebels' bid to balk an election set for Friday at the Chillicothe office. The NLRB dismissed rebel charges of unfair labor practices against Harold J. Maupin, business agent of the local, and other union officers. The dispute arose in 1961.

Board Gets Certificate

Award Won By Chamber In Fire Prevention Work

A "Certificate of Merit" awarded by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce for the fire prevention program it arranged in 1962 was turned over to the Board of Trustees of the local Chamber at the monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The Chamber was cited "for community service in fire prevention activities" as a result of the program it arranged with the assistance of area fire departments in observance of National Fire Prevention Week in October.

The insurance department of the U. S. Chamber sponsors the observance in co-operation with the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

The award given the local Chamber was turned over to H. J. English, chairman of the safety committee, which was in charge of the program.

Don Eckert, reporting for the civic and community affairs committee, discussed recent meetings of the City Planning Commission and sessions held at Lisbon on establishment of regional planning. He also reported on Council's recent action in deciding to turn over administration of the riverfront area to the Board of Thompson Park Commissioners. The administrative change was suggested by the Chamber committee.

James Locke, a member of the education committee, discussed arrangements for the annual student recognition dinner the group will hold Tuesday night at the Travelers Hotel, honoring top graduates of East Liverpool, Chester, Newell, Beaver Local and South Side High Schools.

George A. Shaw related recent activities of the business relations committee, including an agreement to join with the Columbiana County Motor Club in promoting tourism in the area. Discussion courses which the group expects to sponsor also were explained.

E. R. Chandler, executive manager, reported on the annual meeting of the U. S. Chamber in Washington April 28-May 1. The Chamber also was represented at the meeting by Alvin T. Babb, Charles Taylor and Winston A. Porter.

He also outlined plans for the spring membership meeting May 28 at the Country Club.

Babb reported on recent meetings of the industrial development committee, which he heads. He explained that teams of members of the committee have visited other communities to observe the establishment and operation of industrial development corporations in attracting new factories.

A report on activities of the East Liverpool Merchants Association included details on the group's future plans and data on a meeting last week in which the businessmen decided to seek larger signs to mark the turnoffs from E. 3rd St. to the business district. It also was reported that recently purchased trash receptacles are in place in the business district and that the annual election of officers is under way.

The Chamber received a letter of thanks from Rep. Wayne L. Hays, 18th District congressman, who was a guest at a legislative conference of the group April 25.

In connection with the current observance of Police Week, the board praised officers on their work in protecting the community and agreed to send a letter of commendation to the department.

Chamber Resolution Eulogizes Mr. Betts

At its meeting Tuesday afternoon, the Board of Trustees of the Chamber of Commerce enacted a resolution paying tribute to the late School Supt. Ralph W. Betts both for his work as an educator and as a "devoted member" of the Chamber.

A letter of sympathy and a copy of the resolution of respect was ordered forwarded to the family. The Chamber's resolution cited the fact that Mr. Betts served numerous terms on the board, including a three-year tenure that ended last Dec. 31, and had worked as a committee chairman and an instructor for several discussion courses the Chamber sponsored.

Ohio House Vote Slated On 'Golden-Age Villages'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House will vote today on a bill authorizing construction of a series of "Golden-Age Villages" to house several thousand non-psychotic aged now in state hospitals.

The bill would fulfill one of the campaign promises of Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes. Indications from a long GOP caucus were that the bill will pass handily and go to the Senate.

The bill would create a building commission and the work would be financed by revenue bonds.

The House took care of a couple of financial matters Tuesday. It passed a bill appropriating $11.1 million to cover a welfare fund deficiency and another $2.5 million for a school fund deficiency. Both bills are headed for certain passage in the Senate.

A big feature of the legislative day was House approval of a Senate-passed bill to require relief recipients to do public work in return for their relief checks.

The controversial measure passed the House, 101-27, but must return to the Senate for concurrence in amendments. The major amendments provide for a physical examination of a relief recipient to determine that he is sufficiently able-bodied to do the required work and to give him workmen's compensation protection.

The Senate completed action on the "condominium" bill, a measure which will permit private ownership of individual apartment units.

It differs from apartment unit ownership in other states in that it permits ownership through a recordable deed. Backers of the proposal, chiefly the Ohio Savings & Loan League, predict a building boom in the apartment-house field.

The Senate passed a half-dozen bills one of which now applies only to Morgan County. The bill, if it gets through the House, would allow any county which has abandoned its county home to lease the building for either a rest or nursing home.

Ohio House Vote Slated On 'Golden-Age Villages'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House will vote today on a bill authorizing construction of a series of "Golden-Age Villages" to house several thousand non-psychotic aged now in state hospitals.

The bill would fulfill one of the campaign promises of Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes. Indications from a long GOP caucus were that the bill will pass handily and go to the Senate.

The bill would create a building commission and the work would be financed by revenue bonds.

The House took care of a couple of financial matters Tuesday. It passed a bill appropriating $11.1 million to cover a welfare fund deficiency and another $2.5 million for a school fund deficiency. Both bills are headed for certain passage in the Senate.

A big feature of the legislative day was House approval of a Senate-passed bill to require relief recipients to do public work in return for their relief checks.

The controversial measure passed the House, 101-27, but must return to the Senate for concurrence in amendments. The major amendments provide for a physical examination of a relief recipient to determine that he is sufficiently able-bodied to do the required work and to give him workmen's compensation protection.

The Senate completed action on the "condominium" bill, a measure which will permit private ownership of individual apartment units.

It differs from apartment unit ownership in other states in that it permits ownership through a recordable deed. Backers of the proposal, chiefly the Ohio Savings & Loan League, predict a building boom in the apartment-house field.

The Senate passed a half-dozen bills one of which now applies only to Morgan County. The bill, if it gets through the House, would allow any county which has abandoned its county home to lease the building for either a rest or nursing home.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Gifted Child Finds School Boring

A Missouri mother writes of her son, eight, in the second grade, the eldest of four children. She says he is well-developed physically and healthy, does schoolwork willingly, likes math and science and has read 200 books in the first three months of school. On a group intelligence test he scored 122. The state grade-placement test found him nearly at fourth-grade level. "He likes competitive sports and games," she writes, "wants to be first and thinks he must always win: he finishes classwork and talks to classmates, thus disrupting the class; he is bored with present schoolwork, picks on younger brothers and chews his nails."

Dr. Garry Meyers

THE MOTHER WANTS to know how she and her husband can help this lad learn that he cannot always be first in everything and overcome his apparent boredom with school and curb his bullying and teasing of smaller brothers; also, if they are right in urging him to do neater work and to slow down.

My reply in part:

Clearly that lad is gifted. Encourage him to go on reading. Read and discuss with him, you and Dad — books and subjects more advanced than his schoolwork. Let him see you parents constantly reading and learning.

Tactfully you might prevail on his teacher to let him read some advanced books at school. Perhaps the school might be willing to advance him a grade. Leave the matter of his school behavior to his teacher.

But when his prepared written work for school is done carelessly at home, require him to do it over neatly. Hold him rather rigidly to reasonably regular routines at bedtime. Forbid viewing programs of violence on TV.

Attract to your home some other children of this boy's age when you can study him and guide him in being a good sport and playmate.

—:—

FINE THAT HE strives to excel so long as he is considerate of the rights of others and does not grow conceited over his achievements. Curb his selfish ways with others, especially in the family.

Wonderful if he could be prevailed on to read to his younger brothers, explain things to them and help them make and do things, so they might look up to him as their kind, smart "big brother".

He probably feels he does not stand as well in the family as the younger boys do, which could cause him to feel jealous of them and tease and bully them. When in your presence he mistreats them, be severe with him.

Good punishment for this might be to require him to sit unamused for half an hour. Show pleasure when he treats them kindly.

Also make sure they do not impose on him or mess up his things and that each boy has some playmates of his own age outside the family.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Exercise Gets Dieter Out Of Doldrums

"You're slimmer. . .you look wonderful!" This was my greeting to a friend whom I had not seen in several months. She looked puzzled, then explained happily, "It must be the exercise. I bowl twice a week, and I've added a few daily stretch - bends. I feel slimmer and my clothes fit better. Why don't you tell your readers how good it makes them feel to exercise?" she demanded.

Ida Jean Kain

Well now, perhaps I don't promise you enough on that score. There is no tonic measure that compares with a moderate amount of exercise. Nature never meant us to just sit. As muscles go down, fat comes on and inertia sets in. With exercise you look and feel pounds lighter.

This is not the same as claiming that exerise, without calorie cutting, is a fast way to reduce weight.

ON THE OTHER hand, those who get some exercise into their way of life, have far less trouble controlling their weight. Also, I can promise you'll look slimmer and younger. Dieters will be able to slip into a smaller dress size a lot sooner than they could if all exercise is shunned.

In fact, the happiest reducers are those who do not over-diet or under-exercise. Tune in to this note from a homemaker who used exercise to pull out of the mulligrubs. She reports that figure fixing is just one facet of her program of self-improvement.

"I must have made 20 false starts. Disgruntled with the way I looked, I used to feel insecure, even jealous, without cause. Then I would turn to food for consolation.

"Now I'm trying something constructive. I resolved to get a move on the substitute exercise for excess food! It takes a little push, and a lot of forethought. But I find that stimulating my circulation gets rid of stagnant thoughts and feelings of discontent.

"I feel a sense of awakened power and that I can do almost anything! Losing weight actually has become just one facet of my program of self - improvement.

"Please tell your Mystery Dieter not to let us down — more important, not to let herself down. I hope she sees herself trim and slim and triumphant. Tell her I've included her in my prayers. Tell all your dieters how much their letters have helped me."

—:—

THE SPIRIT of togetherness expressed in the letters is the real strength of this column. This reader has shared a potent secret. Change your thought patterns and you can change your life.

See yourself slim and trim and this compelling vision activates your will-to-win.

Send a long stamped, self - addressed envelope for "Away With Middle Spread." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Review. Post card requests cannot be answered.

Dilute a can of condensed cream of celery soup with about half a cup of milk; pour over cooked cauliflowerets (from a medium head) and a couple of cups of diced cooked ham. Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and heat and brown in a moderate oven for about half an hour.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: When I saw in the paper that you went to Russia a couple of years ago I figured you were a Commie. Now, after reading your answer to "Proud American," I am sure of it.

Just because the man wrote and said he was sick and tired of seeing foreigners come over here and get rich while red-blooded Americans can't even find jobs you called him an "ignorant malcontent."

The foreigners are the ignorant malcontents. That's why they come here to get rich. These foreign pigs elbow their way in by the millions.

And what do they do when they get here? They criticize our government, our manners, our schools and our children. No matter where they came from it was always better "over there."

The foreigners worm their way into factories and businesses, starting at the bottom, pretending to be grateful and humble, and before you know it they are in the top jobs and the true Americans are out on the street.

I'm in favor of shipping five million foreigners right back to where they came from and giving their jobs to deserving unemployed Americans. — FLAG WAVER AND PROUD OF IT.

Dear Flag Waver: Thank you for your point of view. Here is another letter — on the same subject.

Dear Ann: I was deeply interested in your splendid reply to "Proud American" who complained because foreigners were coming over here taking jobs which should be reserved for "true Americans."

Over the last 10 years more than 100,000 immigrants entered this country, bringing with them skills declared to be in critically short supply in the United States.

One of our most serious shortages, according to the U.S. Department of Labor, is in the field of engineering. Of the 100,000 especially skilled immigrants who entered this country in the past decade 31,000 were engineers. This represents 80 per cent of the number of engineers graduated from United States schools during 1961.

Immigrants are making essential and laudible contributions to our country. They are not displacing "true Americans," they are creating jobs for Americans by contributing to this country's economy.—R.N.W. OF THE U.S. COMMITTEE FOR REFUGEES.

Punitive Mate

Dear Ann: My husband is a good father and an excellent provider — of material things, that is. He is active in church work and civic affairs, reads a lot and considers himself an authority on many subjects.

This man runs 10 feet ahead of me when we walk to church and shouts, "Look out for the cars or you'll be run over." He never has opened a car door for me, lit my cigarette, helped me with my coat or allowed me to use the cream or sugar first. Often he is the only male in the room who does not stand when a lady enters.

I've been correcting him about these things for almost 20 years, which of course makes me a nag and a shrew. Am I wrong to feel that a man owes it to his wife to behave in a fairly civilized manner? What can I do to make him see it my way?—RATHER STAY HOME.

Dear Rather: If you've been unable to make a dent in 20 years you may as well save your breath to cool your soup. At first his poor manners may have been traceable to ignorance but now they are punitive.

People who behave badly to punish others only make themselves look ugly.

Confidentially

TO FEET OF CLAY: You have a head to match, Mister, if you believe that yarn. No man is going to buy a girl a car and pay her rent because she "reminds him of his sister."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Zollinger Shows $168 In Campaign Spending

Lawrence J. Zollinger spent $168 in his successful campaign for the Republican nomination for city auditor in the primaries May 7, he said in a sworn statement of expenses filed Tuesday with the County Election Board.

Two unsuccessful Democratic candidates also filed the reports. Caesar A. Peters reported expenses of $62 in a bid for nomination as councilman-at-large. Elwyn G. Shenkel said he spent $19 in a campaign for Fourth Ward councilman.

Russell Keefer, a Democratic candidate for First Ward councilman in Wellsville, said his expenses totaled $10.

The reports are required under the "Corrupt Practices Act," which puts a ceiling on campaign spending. The deadline is June 21.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: When I saw in the paper that you went to Russia a couple of years ago I figured you were a Commie. Now, after reading your answer to "Proud American," I am sure of it.

Just because the man wrote and said he was sick and tired of seeing foreigners come over here and get rich while red-blooded Americans can't even find jobs you called him an "ignorant malcontent."

The foreigners are the ignorant malcontents. That's why they come here to get rich. These foreign pigs elbow their way in by the millions.

And what do they do when they get here? They criticize our government, our manners, our schools and our children. No matter where they came from it was always better "over there."

The foreigners worm their way into factories and businesses, starting at the bottom, pretending to be grateful and humble, and before you know it they are in the top jobs and the true Americans are out on the street.

I'm in favor of shipping five million foreigners right back to where they came from and giving their jobs to deserving unemployed Americans. — FLAG WAVER AND PROUD OF IT.

Dear Flag Waver: Thank you for your point of view. Here is another letter — on the same subject.

Dear Ann: I was deeply interested in your splendid reply to "Proud American" who complained because foreigners were coming over here taking jobs which should be reserved for "true Americans."

Over the last 10 years more than 100,000 immigrants entered this country, bringing with them skills declared to be in critically short supply in the United States.

One of our most serious shortages, according to the U.S. Department of Labor, is in the field of engineering. Of the 100,000 especially skilled immigrants who entered this country in the past decade 31,000 were engineers. This represents 80 per cent of the number of engineers graduated from United States schools during 1961.

Immigrants are making essential and laudible contributions to our country. They are not displacing "true Americans," they are creating jobs for Americans by contributing to this country's economy.—R.N.W. OF THE U.S. COMMITTEE FOR REFUGEES.

Punitive Mate

Dear Ann: My husband is a good father and an excellent provider — of material things, that is. He is active in church work and civic affairs, reads a lot and considers himself an authority on many subjects.

This man runs 10 feet ahead of me when we walk to church and shouts, "Look out for the cars or you'll be run over." He never has opened a car door for me, lit my cigarette, helped me with my coat or allowed me to use the cream or sugar first. Often he is the only male in the room who does not stand when a lady enters.

I've been correcting him about these things for almost 20 years, which of course makes me a nag and a shrew. Am I wrong to feel that a man owes it to his wife to behave in a fairly civilized manner? What can I do to make him see it my way?—RATHER STAY HOME.

Dear Rather: If you've been unable to make a dent in 20 years you may as well save your breath to cool your soup. At first his poor manners may have been traceable to ignorance but now they are punitive.

People who behave badly to punish others only make themselves look ugly.

Confidentially

TO FEET OF CLAY: You have a head to match, Mister, if you believe that yarn. No man is going to buy a girl a car and pay her rent because she "reminds him of his sister."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Zollinger Shows $168 In Campaign Spending

Lawrence J. Zollinger spent $168 in his successful campaign for the Republican nomination for city auditor in the primaries May 7, he said in a sworn statement of expenses filed Tuesday with the County Election Board.

Two unsuccessful Democratic candidates also filed the reports. Caesar A. Peters reported expenses of $62 in a bid for nomination as councilman-at-large. Elwyn G. Shenkel said he spent $19 in a campaign for Fourth Ward councilman.

Russell Keefer, a Democratic candidate for First Ward councilman in Wellsville, said his expenses totaled $10.

The reports are required under the "Corrupt Practices Act," which puts a ceiling on campaign spending. The deadline is June 21.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Skeptical Of TV Counterparts

Genuine housewives are a pretty skeptical group—at least those I hear from are.

"Who're they kidding with that gal who isn't supposed to know she's on TV for a soap commercial?" snaps one such housewife.

Hal Humphrey

"There she sits in a kitchen with more lights than a night baseball park, telling a complete stranger how dirty her husband's T-shirts were before she used 'New Improved Soap Flakes,' and then when this stranger says, 'You're on television,' the gal looks stunned and replies, 'Oh, I'll be darned!'

-:-

"IF SHE WERE that dumb, she wouldn't know about 'New Improved' anything. She'd still be beating her clothes on a rock."

From another housewife comes this reaction to the sudden stream of "unrehearsed" interview commercials:

"I love the one where the woman is spouting off about how her clothes now smell 'like outdoors.' She never lived in my old neighborhood in the Bronx. If her clothes smelled like that outdoors, she'd have to burn them."

Even the Schwerin Research Corp., a firm which tests effectiveness of TV commercials, reports that, as a group, these "unrehearsed" commercial dramas "tended to be disliked" and that there was extremely high skepticism about their being "unrehearsed and spontaneous."

-:-

THIS NEWS shouldn't shock Madison Avenue. The same people who watched Charles Van Doren agonize his way to riches on a quiz show are now watching these "I'll-be-darned" commercials, but they've grown wary and cynical.

Why, then, do these agency hucksters persist in trying to convince the TV audience into believing that these nonprofessionals are incorruptible interviewees who simply love soap and want to tell the whole world about it?

The answer has got to be that the boys along Madison Avenue are clever chaps, and they're on a kick now about showing us "real people"—just like ourselves—who use soap, toothpaste, cold remedies and all of the other things which make life worthwhile.

-:-

IF MRS. WHOSIS from Chicago has hands just like her teenage daughter's, then you've got to believe it's because she's kept her hands in the softest dishwater this side of heaven—not that she always wore rubber gloves and for the past five years has had a housekeeper whose hands are a mess.

Then there's that comely miss who experiences what she calls a "general loosening up" right after she's swallowed a packet of pills for her cold. But how do we know she didn't chase it with a double whisky toddy? Why, because she has an honest face, that's why, and also is just one of us plain folk.

And what about that naive Charley who expresses sheer shock when some mysterious voice tells him the car he thinks is in the $4,000 to $5,000 class actually costs only $2,900?

IT'S HARD to tell how much longer these interviews-with-real-people commercials will be poured at us over TV. A housewife whom I happened to know intimately believes they will have to get more realistic to hold the attention of the jaded TV viewers.

She says, "I'd like to see one where the housewife simply yawns once, then replies, 'Oh, I don't know, but I think one detergent is about as good as another. I usually buy the one I see first on the supermarket shelf. But I'll tell you what — if you want to leave a six-month supply of yours here for free, I'll even shout "Who me!" when you tell me I'm on TV, okay?' "

Sure, I'd like to see that one myself.

Fellowship Set Up In Name Of Mrs. FDR

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Newspaper Women's Club has established an international fellowship in the name of Eleanor Roosevelt to provide study and travel for newspaper women.

The club said Tuesday the fund is being started with a $10,000 grant from the members and its trustees are seeking endowments and contributions.

Commissioners OK Transportation Study

CINCINNATI (AP)—A proposed regional transportation study, to cost about $1,715,000, has won the informal approval of Hamilton County commissioners, who would put up $160,000 toward the cost.

The proposal is for a study of transport needs in three Southwest Ohio counties, three in Northern Kentucky and one in Southeast Indiana.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 IN MEMORIAM

John I. Humphreys — In loving memory of our dear dad, who slept away 1 year ago, May 15. He bade none a last farewell. He said goodby to none. The heavenly gates had opened, A lovely voice said "Come" and with farewell unspoken, He gently entered home. Our dear daddy sleeps in silence, We'd not distrub his rest. Sad and lonely are the hearts of those who loved him best. Your sons, John and Don.

In loving memory of John Humphreys who passed away 1 year ago today, May 15th, 1962. God knows how much we miss him, Never shall his memory fade: Loving thoughts shall ever wander, To the spot where he is laid. From your loving wife, sons, daughters, and family.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Skeptical Of TV Counterparts

Genuine housewives are a pretty skeptical group—at least those I hear from are.

"Who're they kidding with that gal who isn't supposed to know she's on TV for a soap commercial?" snaps one such housewife.

Hal Humphrey

"There she sits in a kitchen with more lights than a night baseball park, telling a complete stranger how dirty her husband's T-shirts were before she used 'New Improved Soap Flakes,' and then when this stranger says, 'You're on television,' the gal looks stunned and replies, 'Oh, I'll be darned!'

-:-

"IF SHE WERE that dumb, she wouldn't know about 'New Improved' anything. She'd still be beating her clothes on a rock."

From another housewife comes this reaction to the sudden stream of "unrehearsed" interview commercials:

"I love the one where the woman is spouting off about how her clothes now smell 'like outdoors.' She never lived in my old neighborhood in the Bronx. If her clothes smelled like that outdoors, she'd have to burn them."

Even the Schwerin Research Corp., a firm which tests effectiveness of TV commercials, reports that, as a group, these "unrehearsed" commercial dramas "tended to be disliked" and that there was extremely high skepticism about their being "unrehearsed and spontaneous."

-:-

THIS NEWS shouldn't shock Madison Avenue. The same people who watched Charles Van Doren agonize his way to riches on a quiz show are now watching those "I'll-be-darned" commercials, but they've grown wary and cynical.

Why, then, do these agency hucksters persist in trying to convince the TV audience into believing that these nonprofessionals are incorruptible interviewees who simply love soap and want to tell the whole world about it?

The answer has got to be that the boys along Madison Avenue are clever chaps, and they're on a kick now about showing us "real people"—just like ourselves—who use soap, toothpaste, cold remedies and all of the other things which make life worthwhile.

-:-

IF MRS. WHOSIS from Chicago has hands just like her teenage daughter's, then you've got to believe it's because she's kept her hands in the softest dishwater this side of heaven—not that she always wore rubber gloves and for the past five years has had a housekeeper whose hands are a mess.

Then there's that comely miss who experiences what she calls a "general loosening up" right after she's swallowed a packet of pills for her cold. But how do we know she didn't chase it with a double whisky toddy? Why, because she has an honest face, that's why, and also is just one of us plain folk.

And what about that naive Charley who expresses sheer shock when some mysterious voice tells him the car he thinks is in the $4,000 to $5,000 class actually costs only $2,900?

IT'S HARD to tell how much longer these interviews-with-real-people commercials will be poured at us over TV. A housewife whom I happened to know intimately believes they will have to get more realistic to hold the attention of the jaded TV viewers.

She says, "I'd like to see one where the housewife simply yawns once, then replies, 'Oh, I don't know, but I think one detergent is about as good as another. I usually buy the one I see first on the supermarket shelf. But I'll tell you what — if you want to leave a six-month supply of yours here for free, I'll even shout "Who me!" when you tell me I'm on TV, okay?' "

Sure, I'd like to see that one myself.

Fellowship Set Up In Name Of Mrs. FDR

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Newspaper Women's Club has established an international fellowship in the name of Eleanor Roosevelt to provide study and travel for newspaper women.

The club said Tuesday the fund is being started with a $10,000 grant from the members and its trustees are seeking endowments and contributions.

Commissioners OK Transportation Study

CINCINNATI (AP)—A proposed regional transportation study, to cost about $1,715,000, has won the informal approval of Hamilton County commissioners, who would put up $160,000 toward the cost.

The proposal is for a study of transport needs in three Southwest Ohio counties, three in Northern Kentucky and one in Southeast Indiana.

2 IN MEMORIAM

John I. Humphreys — In loving memory of our dear dad, who slept away 1 year ago, May 15. He bade none a last farewell. He said goodby to none. The heavenly gates had opened. A lovely voice said "Come" and with farewell unspoken, He gently entered home. Our dear daddy sleeps in silence, We'd not distrub his rest. Sad and lonely are the hearts of those who loved him best. Your sons, John and Don.

In loving memory of John Humphreys who passed away 1 year ago today, May 15th, 1962. God knows how much we miss him, Never shall his memory fade; Loving thoughts shall ever wander, To the spot where he is laid. From your loving wife, sons, daughters, and family.

QUESTION: Is inertia of any value to us?

ANSWER: If by having inertia you mean a person is slothful and lazy, this is obviously not good. But you are probably thinking of the word in its scientific meaning and here it is very useful indeed. Inertia is defined by Newton's first law of motion: a body moving in a straight line or in a state of rest will remain moving that way or be at rest until acted upon by some outside force

In our first picture the ball is at rest. Of course gravity is pulling it down, but remember that gravity is a force acting on the ball; it is not the same as inertia, even if gravity and inertia, in this case, are producing the same result. But when the pitcher hurls it, force has overcome both gravity and inertia and a new inertia is started, the tendency of the ball to move straight forward. After a while, gravity would overcome this and pull the ball down. But before it can do this, another force suddenly overcames the ball's inertia, the batter's bat! Now the ball streaks off in a new direction with a new inertia to continue its movement. The value of inertia here is that the ball has kept in motion. And without a ball in motion, where would your ball game be?

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Look around for other examples of inertia and try the experiment we show. Balance card and nickel carefully and flip card sharply with forefinger of right hand. It will give you a queer feeling to see the card sail away and leave the nickel still on your finger, kept there by its inertia.
